

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE SWEEPS BUSINESS SECTION

Milwaukee Street Bridge Retail District Wiped Out By Fire--Loss Is Estimated At Two Hundred and Fifty to Three Hundred Thousand.

Flames Discovered Under Archie Reid's Dry Goods Store and Quickly Spread to Adjoining Structures. Reid's, Brown Bros., Amos Rehberg, Olympia Candy Store and Miller & Schubert Stocks Entirely Destroyed.

With a loss aggregating between two hundred and three hundred thousand dollars, the stores of Archie Reid, Brown Bros., Amos Rehberg, the Olympia candy store and Miller & Schubert, but a twisted, smoking mass of refuse in the river, a total loss, the rear of J. F. Bailey & Son's dry goods store gutted by the flames and damaged by smoke, the stock of the Golden Eagle damaged by smoke and water, the wholesale and retail liquor shop of Harry Thometz flooded and badly damaged, the Milwaukee street bridge so badly burned as to its underpinnings and decking that it will practically have to be rebuilt, tell the story of one of the worst fires that Janesville has ever experienced.

Just how the blaze started is a mystery. Apparently it was beneath the Reid store in the Carpenter block, but almost before the first stream of water could be turned on the entire front was one blazing mass, the fire had communicated to Brown Bros. shoe store next door to the west, and then had spread under the Milwaukee street bridge, threatening the Jackson block across the street.

Mounting heavenward the flames showered sparks on all the neighboring buildings, endangering the whole of the downtown retail district and but for prompt work on the part of Chief Klein, in ordering leads of hose to the roof of the Hayes block, up the alley in the rear of the stores facing Main street, and through the Hookett, Wilcox and howling alleys, on North Main street, and thence along the river front to light the flames from under the bridge, the flames would have swept the entire center of the city and no one knows where they would have stopped.

Hardly had the first alarm of fire been sounded before it was seen that the Carpenter building, occupied by Archie Reid and the Sutherland block adjoining, where were located Brown Bros. shoe store and Amos Rehberg, were doomed. The two frame structures, occupied by the Olympia candy store and Miller & Schubert were like tinder for the flames and every effort was devoted to prevent the conflagration spreading to the brick block owned by George Sutherland where the F. J. Bailey & Son and Golden Eagle stores were located.

That this latter building was saved was due to heroic work on the part of the firemen detailed to this work and the good judgment of Chief Klein and Assistant Chief Murphy, who directed the work. Mr. Sutherland, himself, aided materially, assisting a number of volunteers who did yeoman service.

Dr. A. P. Burrus, who had offices in the Carpenter block, was in his rooms when the fire started and was found almost suffocated, groping his way down the stairway and taken to a place of safety.

Harry Thometz, who has apartments over his store in the Putnam block to the east of the Reid store, was also in his rooms and was aroused by the smell of smoke and managed to reach the street unharm although his apartments were ruined by smoke and water which was poured into them later to prevent the flames from spreading to that building.

Mayor James Fathers arrived on the scene early in the evening and at once advised with Chief Klein as to the advisability of calling for aid from adjacent cities as the fire at that time appeared to threaten the whole city.

Aid from Beloit was out of the question owing to the fact that their hose did not fit the Janesville fire plugs, being an odd size. Rockford and Madison were the two nearest departments available and both were communicated with.

Not only did Chief Heil of Madison promise immediate aid, but Mayor Heilm of the Capital City took it upon himself to see the apparatus was loaded on a Northwestern flat car with a special engine.

Equally prompt was the reply from Rockford and Fire Chief Frank Thomas and ten of his fire-fighters, with an engine and a thousand feet of hose was quickly loaded onto an interurban car and rushed to Janesville, making the trip in one hour and twelve minutes.

While the engine was not used, being held in reserve, Chief Thomas and his men did yeoman service, and coming as they did when experienced workers were needed to protect the J. F. Bailey & Son's store and the local men worn out with their hard battle.

Meanwhile the fire had been brought under control and the Madison department was wired not to come and were stopped in the yards south of Madison.

So quickly did the flames spread that less than two minutes after the fire department arrived when the first alarm was rung in, it was impossible to even enter the Rehberg store, three stores west of the Reid store. John R. Horn, employed here tried to unlock the front door to reach the books and his hand was burned by the heat of the iron door handle and the mass of smoke that greeted him drove him into the street.

D. Condos of the Olympia candy store lost everything. He had no insurance and estimates his present assets at thirteen dollars. Miller and the fire engine into action and stationed it on the Milwaukee street bridge, chopping a hole through the plank to drop the suction pipe into the river.

In order to give light for the firemen to work by, three large automobiles were run up to the edge of the bridge and their powerful headlights turned on the scene.

Fire lines had been established half way down the block approaching the bridge from the east and a rope stretched, and officers were stationed at Reid's store, where the fire department, having just reached his home on St. Lawrence avenue, but so intense was the heat he could not even gain an entrance through the rear or front of the building.

Carter and Morse removed their valuable papers from their insurance office, which was in the Putnam block, access to which was cut off by the burning of the stairway through a window.

The books, papers and cash registered buildings were deposited in the stores on the north side of the street, and it will take some time for owners to be able to sort their goods for they were thrown down in mad haste and are piled in a hopeless confusion.

As far as could be learned no one took advantage of looting the goods and the owners of the stores found plenty of willing hands to aid in the work.

At the Brown Brothers' store nothing was rescued and Edward Brown, proof and west side of the Putnam building, where fire smoldered throughout the evening, occasionally breaking into flame, and at times was directed to the floor of the bridge.

Almost from the time the fire began the Milwaukee street bridge was impassable for fire apparatus, as the horses could not be forced through the dense smoke that hung over it. All heavy equipment had to be brought around by way of the Court street bridge, but care was taken to keep down the fire on the Milwaukee street structure so that the firemen could cross with ladders, and the hoses of hose be kept intact. Hoses were enabled the firemen to light the fire from underneath. Automobiles, one of which was stationed at either end of the bridge, assisted the firemen by illuminating the bridge with their searchlights. The current in all light and power wires was turned off about an hour after the fire started to protect the firemen and spectators of the fire from live wires, and from that time on the firemen's lanterns, auto searchlights, the glare of the fire, and electric flashlights was the only light to direct the firemen in their work.

Every foot of hose in the possession of the department was laid out and put to use. Streams were directed from the windows of the Hayes block from the roof of the F. J. Bailey & Son store, from the bridge and every possible position of vantage, and the roof of the Hayes block was kept wet all night as a protection from this flying sparks.

Rehberg's store was a very badly burned, the best position from which to view the conflagration was covered with people. Milwaukee street for nearly a block on either side of the bridge was crowded almost from curb to curb, and the river banks were lined with spectators. The crowd was very good natured and managed to keep order, obeying the orders of the policemen and one man to give the right of way to the fire department.

At the Howard Dry Goods store, every bit of the stock was removed and everything is torn and scattered in a damaging manner. Mr. Howard was on his way to Janesville from Chicago at the time of the fire and first heard of his loss at nine o'clock at the station. Mr. Howard's loss is fairly covered.

The loss of the fire spread so rapidly that his two daughters heard of the destruction at Hart and immediately after it happened. The Brown Brothers' shoe store is a total loss and nothing was saved, not even a shoe string, as Mr. Brown expressed it. Archie Reid valued his loss at sixty thousand dollars and is mostly covered by insurance.

Edward Carpenter, owner of the building carried an insurance of fifteen thousand dollars on the building but it is understood he is a heavy loser by the fire. The plate glass windows were broken on the buildings across the street from the stricken buildings in the Fort Clothing Company and every window up to the Burns Dry Goods store is broken or cracked.

This morning the police department began roping off the bridge and building a protection, only allowing people to cross on the street car track. The fire was still burning in the piles and foundation and every precaution is being taken for the safety of the public.

Mayor Fathers was on hand throughout the evening to give what assistance he could to the fire fighters. With other citizens, he helped cut holes in the floor of the bridge, attended to the operation of the cellar pipes, and did other work that enabled the firemen to give their attention where it was most needed.

The conflagration was exceedingly spectacular, especially as viewed from the Court Street bridge. From time to time during the earlier part of the fire a vivid greenish-blue flame was seen to burst out near the scene of its origin, evidently issuing from the end of a severed gas pipe. Flames mounted to great heights, fresh outbursts marking the progress of the fire. The river was dotted with blazing fragments that were continually dropping away from the burning building, and the sky so vividly illuminated that pigeons and even wild geese flying at a distance were clearly outlined.

The Milwaukee street bridge and its approaches presented a singular sight. Flames and smoke issued from numerous openings and around the edges, automobile searchlights threw their beams across it, firemen and citizens assisting them were continually going to and fro carrying lanterns and flashlights. Sidewalks were piled with furniture and goods carried out of the burning or threatened buildings, and the windows of stores were illuminated by numerous wax candles.

Schubert, next door to the west, also is a total loss, there being no insurance.

It is understood that Amos Rehberg will be one of the heaviest sufferers, having just completed his spring stock purchasing and carrying a partial insurance. His stock will range from fifty to sixty thousand dollars.

Brown Bros. had about ten thousand dollars insurance, it is understood, and carried a stock estimated variously from fifteen to twenty thousand dollars.

Archie Reid, Sr. is out of the city. In San Antonio, Texas, and his son, Archie Reid, Jr., last night estimated the loss at seventy-five thousand dollars, with partial insurance.

The Thometz stock is partially covered by insurance and his loss can not be estimated until the water is cleared from the building.

The law library and papers of the Carpenter and Carpenter law firms are a total loss, nothing being saved with partial insurance. Other firms located in the upper stories of the structures destroyed, who lost everything, are the Kundson Sign company, F. J. Wurms, tailor shop, Carpenter and Day, electricians; Hilton and Sadler, architects; the First Christian church; William Isaac, tailor shop, Dr. A. P. Burrus and George L. Hatch, whose harp and music was entirely destroyed.

F. J. Bailey and son's stock damage is estimated at about twelve thousand dollars, with insurance. The Golden Eagle's loss will be by smoke and water and damage to clothing moved. Howard's loss will be by water, as will the losses to Pond and Bailey and the Woolworth stocks. Smoke also did severe damage to the J. L. Ford and son's clothing store across the bridge, on the north side from the fire, and all their stock was carried out the rear to a place of safety.

Shortly after the fire started, Chief Klein ordered the electric power shut off to avoid serious accidents, from high tension electric wires drooping and injuring firemen and pedestrians. This plunged the city in darkness and added confusion and terror to those who did not know the cause.

Theatres were darkened, stores depending on electric light were dark, and candles were used in the hotels and office buildings where anxious watchers waited to transport their valuables to a place of safety.

Power was turned on for a few minutes at nine-thirty, but danger from broken wires on the Milwaukee street bridge made it necessary to turn the current off again until ten-thirty when the streets were lighted. Meanwhile the chief had ordered there to prevent anyone reaching the danger zone. The same was done on the west approach of the bridge.

Meanwhile business men had interested themselves in aiding the firemen in their work and hot coffee and sandwiches were passed around to the workers. Later warm suppers were served both the local firemen and the Rockford Chief and his party, at McDonald's restaurant, the money being pledged by the business men.

Had there been a high wind blowing nothing could have saved the city from destruction. Almost from the first stores destroyed were doomed and the efforts were directed to save the adjacent buildings. On every roof men were stationed to put out the flying sparks, that showered up as wall after wall of the burned buildings fell into the river.

With the turning off of the electric power many of these men were marooned there for hours or managed to reach the ground by climbing down ladders.

As the refuse from the burning building fell into the river, it formed a partial dam and backed up the water, causing a gradual rise of some eight inches in a few minutes, basements on North Main street being flooded as during the high water last week.

Calls for help in handling the heavy hose by Chief Klein met with ready response from hundreds of young men and many business men hauled and tugged at long stretches of twisting hose, some even being knocked down when the water was suddenly turned on.

Chief Klein directed the fire-fighting from the east side of the bridge with Assistant Chiefs Murphy and Osgood handling the flames from the west approach. At times the pipemen were driven back to safety by the heat of the flames, which shot out as though impelled by an unseen power.

One of the most noticeable features of the entire fire was the terrible, sickening black smoke that evidenced itself at the very outset of the conflagration. It rolled in masses from under the bridge and Reid store as though tar, oil and paints were being burned. So intense was this smoke and over-powering that even those who reached the burning structures first were unable to enter the buildings at all.

Archie Reid, Jr. had left his store at six-thirty-five, and says everything was all right then. Yet within twenty minutes the fire was discovered, a roaring mass of flames, shooting under the bridge and buildings across the river under the bridge and through the flooring to the inflammable material within.

ter in the United Cigar company's store were also carried to safety although none of the stock was damaged. Many attorneys in both the Jackson and Hayes blocks removed their papers and valuables to places of safety, fearing the spread of the fire to those two buildings.

Fire at West Side. As the fire crept along the bridge it was feared the whole block, if not the entire city, was doomed as store after store caught and was consumed in but a few minutes it seemed as though the whole block must go, until the blaze reached the brick wall at the east side of the F. J. Bailey and Sons' store.

When the fire reached here the iron sheeting protecting the building crumpled up and fell into the river with the intense heat. As the Miller and Schubert Cigar store became engulfed in flames the foundations of the building at the east side gave way and tipped the building into the river.

This undoubtedly saved further damage as it left a large space between the approaching flames and the Bailey store. Here the flames swept toward the building but the space between them afforded the firemen an excellent chance of doing effective work in checking the fire. But soon the flames leaped past the wall and the rear end of the store was in flames. This however was checked before any serious damage could be done.

Rescue Work. When the fire began advancing across the bridge and fear was held by store owners that nothing could stop the ravaging flames, work was started to remove the stock from the stores. The Golden Eagle was first and a long line of eager people went into the building, which at this time was filled with smoke. Nearly all suits, hats, ties, and shirts were taken out quickly and carried across the street into the Smith Drug store and Kimball furniture store.

Soon after the Golden Eagle was cleared men started to pack up the large quantities of costly silks and cloth were taken to a point of safety from F. S. Bailey and Sons, and Pond and Bailey's.

At Howard's store, his stock is in a bad condition at it is in a hopeless jumble. At Harry Raneaus' Drug store work was also done in removing all cameras and valuable stock. The showcases at the Pond and Bailey store were taken out and deposited on the sidewalk at a safe distance from the flames.

The work of salvaging the goods was a little precaution for the fire itself did little damage here, but smoke and water would have worked havoc among the goods and the Pond and Bailey store was practically flooded.

All goods that were taken from the manager was at the Appleby home for supper and knew nothing of the fire until he came down town and saw his store in ruins in the river. This was the first that he knew of the catastrophe. The Brown Bros. carried about ten thousand dollars insurance on their property and this does not fully cover their loss.

The fire underneath the bridge and the Archie Reid store was discovered by Dennis McGinley and Patrolman Harry Smith at fifteen minutes to seven through the thin lines of smoke that issued from the crevices in the plank. McGinley, at once turned in an alarm from box 7, which is located on the bridge and in less than two minutes time the fire apparatus from the west side station was on the ground. By this time great volumes of dense black smoke were pouring from under the bridge and windows in front of the Archie Reid store were cracking and forced out by the heat with the sound and rapidity of rifle shots, letting out tongues of flame from the burning interior. Before water could be played on the flames three distinct explosions were heard by the firemen and simultaneously the front of the store was blown out.

From this time on the progress of the fire was so rapid that all hope of saving the Reid store was given up, and the efforts of the firemen were devoted almost exclusively to protect the Hayes block, the building occupied by Carter and Morse, H. S. Thometz, and the United Cigar store, and to prevent the spread of the fire to the westward in accomplishing this purpose they were only partially successful, for it was but a few moments before the Brown Bros. shoe store was ablaze at both front and rear, and the progress of the flames was unchecked until the Rehberg stores, the Miller & Schubert cigar store and the Olympia fruit store had been consumed or dropped into the river. The fire was halted at the east wall of the F. J. Bailey and Son store.

Large quantities of burning blazing material floated down the river, threatening to communicate the fire to the frame buildings on the Court street bridge, and to be prepared to protect them if necessary, the fire engine was spotted at the east end of the bridge. When it became apparent that there was no further danger of the fire extending in that direction the engine was removed to the east end of the Milwaukee street bridge. There it was steamed up and supplied water to a large turret nozzle mounted on one of the hose wagons. The stream was played on the

FOUR CITIES READY TO URGE ARGUMENTS ON CARPENTER BILL

Janesville-Madison, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac and Wausau Favor Committee to Investigate State Fair Sites.

(By Associated Press.) Madison, Wis., April 2.—Janesville, Madison, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh and Wausau are expected to have delegations present at the meeting of the Carpenter bill for the state fair removal Thursday afternoon before the finance committee. The bill provides for a committee of nine members to make an examination of all the proposed state fair sites and to report to the legislature within thirty days. The various cities having sites to offer are expected to urge the enactment of the Carpenter bill so as to have opportunity later of presenting the feasibility of their respective sites to the legislative investigating committee. Within the past two weeks protests have been received from numerous exhibitors against present methods of conducting the fair at Milwaukee. These will be presented to the committee Thursday by former Mayor J. C. Schubert of this city.

THREE ATTEMPTS MADE TO BURN Y. M. C. A. BUILDING

(By Associated Press.) Council Bluffs, Ia., April 2.—Three attempts have been made within the last ten days to burn the Y. M. C. A. building here. The last attempt was last night when both the building and coal oil tanks which were found burning and scattered about the basement. There is no clew to the incendiary. One thousand dollars' damage was done by the three fires.

SAINT PAUL PASSES
NEW REGULATIONS

New Rules Applying to Danger Signals
Goes Into Effect Yesterday—
Rules Modified.

New rules passed by the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad officials concerning safety appliances went into effect today and many of the rules have been changed regarding the use of fuses, torpedoes and flags. Rule 73 reads as follows: "A torpedo placed on the rail is a signal to be used in addition to the regular danger signal. The explosion of one or more torpedoes is to stop immediately. Torpedoes are not to be placed near station or crossroads, where persons are liable to be injured by them."

"A fuse is an extra signal to be lighted and placed upon the track and to be used freely in the case of accident or when a train stops or reduces its speed so as to endanger its rear from trains that may be following when there is a condition endangering a train on an adjacent track. When fuses are used as a danger signal they must not be used on any bridge or any place where there is a danger of fire."

In whistling four long blasts is the signal for the fireman to return from the west. Five long blasts means for the fireman to return from the east."

"When a train stops between stations, a flag man must go immediately back with the proper signals to stop any train that may be following in the rear. The flag man must go back, and shall take with him not less than three torpedoes, three fuses and a red flag (day) and at night a white one. He shall place one torpedo on the rail on the engineer's side when three-fourths of a mile (2 1/2 telegraph poles) from the rear of the train and at a further distance of a quarter of a mile (eight telegraph poles) he shall place two torpedoes on the engineer's side. He will then select a clear spot where he will gain a good view of the track ahead and remain until a train following is stopped or he is recalled. On returning he will leave at the most distant point from the train the torpedoes, and take up the rest. If at night or the weather is stormy or foggy, he will light and place fuses on the track. When it becomes necessary the fore end of the train will be protected in the same manner."

It's Dangerous, Being a Songster.
"I notice," said Mrs. Pozzole, "that a choir soloist in Greenwich, Conn., broke an artery while singing a high note. I never heard of an accident such as that before, but I have often feared Mr. Pozzole might rupture himself singing the low notes in 'Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep.'"

Making Mistakes.

TORTURING
CHILDHOOD

Itching Too Terrible to Describe Perfectly Cured by Resinol.
Washington, D. C., Feb. 12, 1913.—"Since early childhood I have suffered untold misery with that terrible torture, eczema, on the back of my hands and fingers. I have spent hundreds of dollars on treatments and consultations and bought every known remedy, but could not be cured. My hands would crack open, oftentimes showing the ligaments, and the skin would stick to the inside of my gloves. Gave Up All Hope of Cure.

"The itching was too terrible to describe and sleep was possible only when in an exhausted condition. This winter I had given up all hope of ever finding a cure, when I heard of Resinol and purchased some. The results were perfectly marvelous. I used three jars of Resinol Ointment, with Resinol Soap, and my hands are perfectly cured. I cannot find words strong enough to praise Resinol and what it has done for me. I wish every one needing relief from that stubborn and torturing affliction would give Resinol a trial. I shall be pleased to answer any inquiries." (Signed) Mrs. Harry O. Jarboe, 621 E. St. N. W.

You can try Resinol free, for skin eruptions, pimples, dandruff, stubborn sores, boils, or piles. Sold by every druggist, but for trial, write to Dept. 23-T, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

Climate Failed;
Medicine Effective

It has been absolutely shown that rest, fresh air and good food do help many persons suffering from Tuberculosis. But it must be admitted that the disease is seldom more than "arrested." Something more is needed.

Eckman's Alternative is a medicine made for the treatment of Tuberculosis. It has conquered this disease again and again. Often these benefits have been effected where the surroundings were not ideal, yet recoveries resulted. Now we argue that Eckman's Alternative should be used in every case of Tuberculosis. In addition to good, nourishing food and fresh air, which we all need, a remarkable case follows:

"Gentlemen: Through Eckman's Alternative I have been saved from a premature death. On December 14, 1904, I was taken with typhoid pneumonia. My lungs became very much affected; my sputum was examined and Tuberculosis Bacilli were found. On February 21, 1905, I was advised to go to Fort Worth, Texas. While there an abscess in my right lung became discharging and I grew weaker. My physician informed me that I must go to Colorado as advised, but I refused to leave Texas. June 21 and arrived in Canon City, June 23. After being there two weeks, my physician informed me that my case was hopeless. Three weeks later I returned home, weighing 103 pounds, the doctor having given me no assurance of reaching there alive.

"On July 14, 1905, I began taking Eckman's wonderful remedy for Consumption. Today I weigh 155 pounds, am stout and well and can do any kind of work about my grain elevator. I have not an ache nor pain in my lungs, but sleep well and feel like a new man." (Signed) ARTHUR WEBB.

Eckman's Alternative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, Throat and Lung Troubles, and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates or habit-forming drugs. Ask for booklets, containing of certificates, and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for more evidence. IN JUDGESHIP RACE

WINS OVER JOHN CUNNINGHAM
BY LESS THAN 300 VOTES
ACCORDING TO LATEST RETURNS.

BELOIT TURNS TRICK

Line City Gives a Total Plurality of 711 For Fifield Who Also Swings Janesville by 54 Votes.

Charles L. Fifield at present the judge of the Janesville municipal court, was elected on Tuesday to succeed Judge John W. Sale as judge of the Rock county probate court. His plurality over J. Cunningham will be less than 250 votes according to the latest returns received at the Gazette office. Fifield carried both Beloit and Janesville, the former by 711 votes and the latter by 54. Beloit's support turned the trick for Fifield who ran far behind Cunningham in most of the country districts.

Towns For Cunningham.
Early returns from the townships indicated that Cunningham was receiving heavy support throughout the country precincts. Milton village gave him a plurality of 66, the town of Spring Valley was his by 70, Magnolia by 44, Harmony by 42, Bradford by 47, and Porter by 35. Evansville, however went to Fifield by a ratio of two to one, but Edgerton went to Cunningham by a plurality of 37.

The vote ran very close in the city of Janesville and was virtually an even break although Fifield carried the first, fourth and fifth wards. Cunningham made his poorest showing in Janesville first ward where he received but 55 votes to Fifield's 166. Here Burpee was second man with 102.

Every one of the seven precincts in Beloit gave Fifield a neat plurality. In the third ward he was two to one ahead of Cunningham. Burpee ran a poor third and Ryan a worse fourth throughout the county. The contest was plainly between Fifield and Cunningham.

Poll a Heavy Vote.
The vote throughout the county was unusually large for a spring election and indicated that there was a large amount of interest in the judgeship contest. Many of the towns polled at last fall. Janesville totaled nearly 1,800 votes in the judgeship contest and Beloit about 2,300.

Interest in the outcome of the judgeship fight was practically at zero in Janesville last night with the entire city horror stricken by the terrible fire which swept the Milwaukee street bridge. Not until after ten o'clock when the flames were under control did the citizens show any disposition to learn the outcome of the election. For an hour or so there were numerous visitors at the Gazette office and a large number of telephone calls were received.

In spite of the fact of the fire, which badly crippled the lines of the telephone companies, especially the Rock county company, the Gazette was fortunate in securing practically complete returns last night and at eleven o'clock there was no doubt as to the relative standing of the candidates.

The following table gives the result of the judgeship race:

ELECT HAUMERSON
ON SCHOOL BOARD

Former High School Teacher Defeats E. T. Fish in First Ward Race—
J. M. Thayer Wins in Fifth.

Emil J. Haumerson, a former instructor in the local high school, was elected school commissioner in the first ward yesterday over E. T. Fish, his opponent, by a vote of 222 to 119. The only other contest in the city election was in the fifth ward where James M. Thayer defeated Harry M. Handy by a vote of 111 to 77. The other school commissioners were elected without opposition as follows: Samuel M. Smith, third ward, and S. B. Buckmaster, school commissioner at large. Chas. H. Lange had no opposition as justice of the peace. All of the supervisors who had no opposition were re-elected: S. B. Heddies in the first, M. P. Richardson in the second, J. L. Bear in the third, J. A. Denning in the fourth, and Ed. Rotherham in the fifth.

STRIKE FOR DEMANDS

Silk Workers Striking for Better Conditions, Refuse to Work Unless Their Leader is Freed From Jail.

Paterson, N. J., April 2.—To the triple demands of the silk mill workers here, more money, shorter hours and less labor there was added today a fourth. The release from jail of William D. Haywood, the Industrial Workers of the World leader, sentenced yesterday to serve six months for disorderly conduct. There will be no resumption of work the leaders declare, until Haywood is freed. A second charge against him, that of causing unlawful assemblage, accuses him of a felony punishable by seven years imprisonment and fine. This charge will probably be placed before the grand jury within a few days.

A HAPPY, LAUGHING
CHILD IN FEW HOURS

If cross, irritable, feverish tongue Coated and Sick, Give Delicious "Syrup of Figs."

Your child isn't naturally cross, irritable and peevish, Mother! Examine the tongue; if coated, it means the little ones' stomach is disordered. Liver inactive and its thirty-feet of bowels clogged with foul, decaying waste. Every mother realizes after giving delicious "Syrup of Figs," that this is the ideal laxative and physic for children. Nothing else regulates the little ones' tender stomach, liver and bowels so effectively besides their dearly love its delightful fig taste.

For constipated bowels, sluggish liver, biliousness, or sour disordered stomach, feverishness, diarrhoea, sore throat, bad breath or to break a cold, give one-half to a teaspoonful of "Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged up waste, sour bile, undigested food and constipated matter will gently move on and out of the system without griping, or nausea, and you will surely have a well, happy and smiling child again shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful. Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

IN WALK-AWAY RACE

PRESENT INCUMBENT OF COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE GETS OFFICE OVER BELOIT CANDIDAT.

COUNTY GOES TO CARY

With Three Precincts Lacking His Majority Over Kitt's Stands 1,332—Many Women Cast Their Votes.

County Superintendent O. D. Antisdel was re-elected to succeed himself as head of the Rock county schools at the election yesterday. With four precincts missing his majority over Frank M. Jack of Beloit stands 533 votes. C. P. Cary carried Rock county in his race with William Kitt for the state superintendency of schools by a majority of 1,332, three precincts missing. Cary secured the vote in practically every precinct of the county with one possible exception. Antisdel's victory was absolute, with the exception of a half dozen precincts. He lost in the city of Edgerton, the towns of Bradford, Newark, Turtle and Fulton, and Village of Orfordville.

That a large number of women availed themselves of the opportunity to vote on the school questions is shown by the large votes in some of the precincts. The village of Clinton is the banner precinct of the county, where 58 women cast their ballots. In this city the female vote was light for the most part with the heaviest in the first and third wards.

A Valuable Suggestion

Important to Everyone.

It is now conceded by physicians that the kidneys should have more attention as they control the other organs to a remarkable degree and do a tremendous amount of work in removing the poisons and waste matter from the system by filtering the blood.

During the winter months especially, when we live an indoor life, the kidneys should receive some assistance when needed, as we take less exercise, drink less water and often eat more rich heavy food, thereby forcing the kidneys to do more work than Nature intended. Evidence of kidney trouble, such as lame back, inability to hold urine, smarting or burning, brick-dust or sediment, "saw" low complexion, rheumatism, may be weak or irregular heart action, warns you that your kidneys require help immediately to avoid more serious trouble.

An herbal medicine containing no minerals or opiates has the most healing influence. An ideal herbal compound that has had most remarkable success as a kidney and bladder remedy is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by mail, absolutely free. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and mention the Janesville Daily Gazette.

SUFFRAGISTS SHOW
FEEDING INSTRUMENTS

English Suffragists Collect So-called Instruments of Torture and Send Them to American Cities.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, April 2.—Following a suggestion made by Baron Von Horst of San Francisco and a number of Americans, English suffragists are collecting various instruments used in the forcible feeding of women prisoners. These include screws and pliers used to force the jaws apart, feeding tubes and other utensils. The collection has been lent by doctors friendly to the suffragists. It will be exhibited in American cities and will afterward be offered as a gift to the Smithsonian Institute.

A true bill against Mrs. Emeline Pankhurst was returned today by the grand jury at the Old Bailey session on the charge of incitement to commit damage. Mrs. Pankhurst was arrested on February 24 in connection with the destruction of the country residence of Chan. Lloyd George. She stated at a public meeting that she had conspired with and incited her followers to commit the outrage. The offense is punishable with penal servitude for a maximum term of 14 years.

"Very little, colonel," save that he seems an excellent young officer—has a record of conspicuous gallantry, I believe, or something of the sort. I should fancy Young's secret service corps would be the proper place for him—you know General Sheridan is organizing such a body, and I understand the wants it to be composed of soldiers exclusively, if he can get them. The valley, it would appear, is infested with—aw—Confederate spies and irregulars, don't you know—of both sexes, too, as we are informed."

"So I hear. Now, regarding this Lieutenant Bedloe, I sent for him as I came through the camp. You may be surprised to learn that he is the son of General Haverill."

"I am unimpressed! Under an assumed name, then?"

"Evidently. He was supposed to have been killed in the southwest, either at Shiloh or when Farragut came up the Mississippi from the Gulf. Instead, he was a prisoner, and he escaped from Libby."

"Here he comes now," said Captain Heartsease, looking down the driveway.

"What—that fellow with the beard? Why, his face was as smooth as a boy's when I last met him in Charleston."

"The young stranger—for he was that by his manner and to all appearances—approached and saluted, saying: 'You wished me to report to you, colonel?'"

"You have been assigned to the regiment during my absence?" asked Kerchival, scanning him closely.

"Yes, sir."

"At this Kerchival started forward, grasped his hand and, looking straight into his eyes, said: 'Frank Haverill!'"

"You—you know me, sir?"

"Yes, Frank, I know you now. You could not have arrived at a more opportune moment. When I passed through Washington I saw Mrs. Haverill, and she told me of your escape from prison in Richmond. But no one knew of your having re-entered the service or that you had been assigned to my regiment—not only that, but to General Haverill's brigade."

"My father?" gasped the lieutenant.

"Yes. Prepare yourself to meet him face to face at any moment. But he can't possibly recognize you with that beard and uniform. Now, only this morning I received a letter from Washington, all about you. Here it is!"

Colonel West took the missive from his pocket and handed it over—"so they have learned more as to your whereabouts since I was there. Count upon me, my dear fellow, to do everything I can for you."

In another moment General Haverill, accompanied by a staff officer to whom he was issuing instructions, stood at the foot of the veranda steps. He had only time to return the salute of the three officers awaiting him there when another of his staff came hurrying up on horseback and handed him a dispatch.

"Good for Major Young!" muttered the general, scanning the paper. "So the men are ready?" Then, turning to Kerchival, he said: "Colonel, I have to instruct you regarding a highly important matter which has just come up, and there is not a minute to be lost. I will ask Captain Heartsease to remain also."

Here Lieutenant Bedloe thought to withdraw unnoticed, with a mere passing salute. But the general's keen eye had looked him over at a glance and with apparent interest for he said quickly:

"One moment, lieutenant—your name?"

"Lieutenant Bedloe, general," put in Heartsease promptly, "one of our best young officers."

CHAPTER XIII.

Signals From Three Top Mountain.

"ARDON me," murmured General Haverill, finally turning away from the youth. "Now, Colonel West, speaking of young officers, we have an adventurous piece of work for some one of them—here Frank stopped to hear the rest—a dangerous mission, so much so that I shall not order any individual to undertake it. A volunteer to lead the venture is what we want."

"Oh, sir, general, may I have the chance?" cried Lieutenant Bedloe.

"I thought you had passed on, sir," returned the general, looking keenly at him again.

"If it is a scouting expedition, sir," the young man went on with irresistible eagerness, "I beg to say that I have made myself thoroughly acquainted with the region hereabout. In fact, I was hoping to qualify as a scout. Please don't refuse me, sir."

General Haverill could not help showing that he was pleased.

"That is the right kind of talk," he declared, turning to the other officers. "Our young friend shall listen while I tell you what is required. We want the key to the enemy's cipher and signal code. They have a signal station on Three Top mountain yonder and another somewhere down the creek that is a nest of mischief to us. Every night we see their messages in fire on the mountain top, and we can't read them. What we want is a bold dash inside Early's lines and a sudden attack upon the station, with seizure of the papers and dispatches. If there is a practicable way of approach from this side of the mountain—the thing might be risked with the right sort of a leader."

"I know of a path, general, and I believe I could accomplish the undertaking," urged Frank.

"Very well, Major McCandless of my staff here will take you to Young's headquarters. He will furnish scout, men and horses—and Confederate uniforms if needed. Now, lieutenant—here General Haverill took out his notebook—"give me a few particulars about yourself. Have you parents living?"

"I have the particulars regarding Lieutenant Bedloe and his parents, general," said Heartsease, hastening to poor Frank's rescue.

"Very well. I will ask you for them if necessary. Goodbye, my lad," he added, turning to Frank and grasping his hand. "Do the best you can—no man can do more. Keep a brave heart and come back to us."

The young man bowed, saluted and started away. Heartsease met him at the end of the veranda, and they exchanged a whispered word. Then Heartsease returned, saying:

"Colonel West—aw—it's decidedly embarrassing, you know; but I shall have to ask leave of absence and go with him."

"Good boy, Heartsease! Well, ask the general. He can hardly refuse you."

"That's all right, but I've got to ask Miss Buckthorn, too, and the thought of that so stirs my emotions, that—well, an revoir, colonel!"

The day began very early at Belle Bouquet that golden October season in that restless year of war's alarms. It was scarcely an hour after sunrise when Colonel Ellingham and Madeline West, returning from their favorite walk to the neighboring hilltop, met Jenny Buckthorn, who had already been down to the camp to meet her father.

"It's all up with us, Madeline," she said. "You know, papa only gave us our passes, at least yours, because we all thought the fighting in this part of the valley was through with. Now it looks as if it were just beginning. Anyway the general says this is no place for women, and he has ordered us to Winchester."

"But surely time will be allowed us to say goodbye?" inquired Madeline anxiously. "I can't help feeling worried at Gertrude not having returned last night, though Rob—that is, Colonel Ellingham—says she has stopped at the house of one of the neighbors down at the ford, where she and I have a class of school children."

"She may be home for breakfast," added Bob reassuringly.

"I hope she will," rejoined Jenny. "Not only on our account, but because a certain officer here is just as good as hors d'combat as a result of her absence. She knew Colonel West was coming, and it seems very funny for her not to be here to receive him if only as a sort of 'dearest foe,' you might say. Gertrude is no cold, cruel, marble hearted thing, you know."

When they reached the house they found Kerchival West already there, pacing the veranda.

"Have you any word from Miss Ellingham?" he asked as soon as they came in sight.

"Not yet, Kerchival," replied Bob. "But my sister is as well able to take care of herself in these parts as you and I are, and she's sure to give a good account of herself before much longer. Depend upon it, Kerchival, old chap, she never left this house with any idea of being absent when you arrived."

"Colonel West," spoke up Jenny Buckthorn. "I understood my father to say that General Haverill was coming up from him to have a talk with you."

"Do you know if they have further orders for me that will take me away from here today?" asked Kerchival.

"Not that I heard of, colonel. But they seem to be awfully worried about those signals from Three Top mountain and about that expedition just sent to try to get the key. I have had to let Heartsease go out on the job too. It seems General Sheridan wants to run over to Washington, and we are afraid there's mischief brewing if he does."

"At this moment General Haverill himself approached. He asked Colonel Ellingham about the latter's sister, Gertrude, and then immediately entered into such a serious conversation with Colonel West that the other young people discreetly withdrew.

"We have reason to expect a movement on the part of the enemy," began General Haverill, "and we must be able to read their signal dispatches if possible. Captain Lockwood of our own signal corps will report to you here with officers and men. In the meantime Colonel West—here the general took from his wallet a newspaper clipping and a letter envelope, which latter he hastily returned to his pocket. It bore the address of Colonel West in Mrs. Haverill's handwriting, being, in fact, the one which had inclosed the missive from Washington received the day before and shown to Frank, who in his eagerness had dropped the envelope on the rustic table on the veranda, where the general had chanced upon it and reserved it without comment. Now he continued:

"Perhaps you can help me in explaining a personal matter about which I am curious. Here is a paragraph copied in the Richmond Dispatch from a South Carolina paper which interests us both."

He handed the clipping to Kerchival, who read:

"Captain Edward Thornton of the Confederate secret service has been assigned to duty in the Shenandoah valley. Our gallant captain still bears upon his face the mark of his meeting in 1861 with Lieutenant (now Colonel) Kerchival West, who is also to serve in the valley with Sheridan's army. Another meeting of these two men would be one of the strange coincidences of the war; as they were at one time, if indeed, they are not at present. Interested in the same beautiful woman. The scandal connected with the name of the lovely wife of a northern officer at the opening of the war was of course overshadowed by the attack on Fort Sumter, but many Charlestonians will remember it. The lady in defense of whose good name Captain Thornton fought the duel is the wife of General Haverill, who will be Colonel West's immediate commander."

"General," exclaimed Kerchival, reddening and rising to his feet, "this is an abominable outrage. But I think we both know its source, and it is fortunate indeed that I have the opportunity to nail it now that the matter is raised up in such a scurrilous way. The article states the truth in one particular, however—I did strike Mr. Thornton after a personal quarrel."

"And what provoked the blow? Evidently there is something in this affair that has been concealed from me, yet which I have a right to know. I need hardly say that I refuse to accept the statement of this scandalous paragraph. At the same time I feel justified in asking you to tell me the whole story frankly as man to man."

"You are right, general. I shall be more than glad to tell you all—as soon as we can be by ourselves for half an hour without interruption."

"The latter proviso was occasioned by the abrupt appearance of Sergeant Barkot, the body servant of General Buckthorn ever since the Mexican war. "Colonel West," he spluttered, "Adjutant Rollins wishes to report a prisoner just captured."

"For the present, colonel," said General Haverill, rising, "we both have our duties. We will meet tonight after taps, when the camp is at rest."

Kerchival bowed assent and saluted.

"Now, then, Barkot, I thought you were to wait at Buckton's ford with a fresh horse in readiness to watch for the return or tidings of Lieutenant Bedloe's party and bring the first news posthaste."

"Right ye are, colonel. Sure wasn't I there? And that's where we captured the prisoner."

"Guerrilla or spy?"

ANURE'S WARNING

Janesville People Must Recognize and Heed It.

Kidney ills come mysteriously. But nature generally warns you. Notice the kidney secretions. See if the color is unhealthy—

If there are settlements and sediment, Passage frequent, scanty, painful. It's time to fear serious kidney trouble.

It's time to use Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have done great work in Janesville.

Benjamin Shallcross, 269 S. River St., Janesville, Wis., says: "Two years ago I had a great deal of trouble from inactive kidneys. The secretions from my kidneys contained sediment and were otherwise disordered. My back became so lame that it was difficult for me to stoop or lift and I became all run down. After using Doan's Kidney Pills a short time, these symptoms of kidney complaint left me and I enjoyed much better health. I could not be induced to endorse Doan's Kidney Pills were I not certain of their merits."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

The Daily Novelette

IN THE CHINA SEA. Why does a sailor hornpipe? Yo ho and a bucket of brine! Call me, mate, at seven bells: I'm broke but I need a shine.

Abe Flanagan, hardly able seaman, warbled his favorite ditty, as, in the dim watches of the night, he held the nose of the Waldorf Castoria 62 degrees contrived sea by southwest.

The turbid waters of the China Sea broke in musical broken china against the vessel's sides, and a school of porpoise chinned that peculiar haunting chimny from which they derive their name.

It was a night for action. The red dog star of the east gleamed down on Abe Flanagan menacingly. No little recked he what was brewing!

Suddenly, with a startled cry, he snuffed. He sniffed again with another startled cry. Sniff, sniff. He rose to his feet, prepared to desert the wheel if another sniff convinced him. Sniff! It convinced him. Now he knew well what was brewing!

With a wild cry he dashed below. 'Twas the grog that was brewing!

Have Color in Your Cheeks—Be Better Looking—Try Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no good, feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study with his patients.

These Olive Tablets oil the bowels—yet have no oily taste. They are a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil.

If you want a clear pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause. Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects. They start the bile and overcome constipation. That's why millions of boxes are sold annually at 10c and 25c per box.

Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results.

DRUGGISTS' NATIONAL HOME SOON COMPLETE AND READY TO OPEN

Will be Ready for Occupancy by April 5—Entire Building Has Been Renovated and Decorated.

The Druggists' National Home, the establishment of which is of especial interest to Janesville people because a former Janesville man, Mr. Heimstreet of Palmyra was active in bringing it to pass, will be ready for the drug fraternity by April 5, according to the Palmyra Enterprise. The entire building, formerly the McFadden sanitarium has been renovated and decorated.

The reception room is done in russet with cream ceilings, the large dining room in peacock blue with ivory ceilings and the halls in citrine green with ivory ceilings. The offices and some of the rooms are already finished with a variety of tints and even the kitchen is attractive in a light green. The rooms back of the Room for Courage.

There is no duty so small, no trial so slight, that it does not afford room for courage. It has a meaning and value for every phase of existence; for the workshop and for the battle-field, for the thronged city and for the lonely desert, for the sick room and for the market place, for the study and for the counting house, for the church and for the drawing room. For courage is just strength of heart and the strong heart makes itself felt everywhere, and lifts up the whole of life, and ennobles it, and makes it move directly to its chosen aim.—Henry van Dyke.

Extravagance Wasted.

"What's doing?" asked the tall plumber. "You're all dolled up." "Had a date with my best girl," explained the short bricklayer. "But aren't you going to keep it?" "I showed up all right, but she wasn't there." "That was pretty tough," "I wouldn't care," said the short bricklayer, "only I went and had my shoes shined all for nothing."—Youngstown Telegram.

DIP-DOPE

Can a child asleep be called a kidnapping? No, but napkin—

ANTICIPATION.

I'm longing, yes, I'm longing for the Easter promenade. When damsels down the silent street go struggling in their best. The vision's one I'd hesitate for other bliss to trade. Because I know my Dream Girl's hat will paralyze the rest. Find another girl.

Doing the Impossible.

The only one who can answer all a small child's questions is the youth who has just finished his first year in college.—Rochester Union.

Not a Complaint.

There is a good deal of complaint because people don't walk more, but it doesn't come from the head of a large family with shoes to buy.—Athenaeon Globe.

FIRST PICTURES OF COLUMBUS FLOOD SHOW EXTENT OF DISASTER

The flood at Columbus, O. Top, rescuing flood victims on Broad street; bottom, fire destroying building in flooded section.

Columbus suffered almost as much as Dayton in the recent Ohio floods. Scores of dead bodies have been recovered and the property loss mounts into the millions. Fire added its horrors to the flood, and several important buildings were burned.

reception room, have been arranged for the hotel office, smoking room and library. J. A. Denning, a leading contractor of Janesville, arrived Tuesday with a force of men to repair porches, etc.

The officers engaged a number of help. J. F. Caniff of Janesville will have charge of the house and grounds. He has been at the Home since the transfer of the property. Mrs. B. Grout was engaged as stewardess and her son Clifford will serve as clerk and have charge of the dining room. Isaac Mason will have charge of the baggage.

The two acres back of the Home, so admirably adapted for wild plants, having a fine grove, was set aside for botanical plants and will be called The Druggists' Botanical Park, and will be devoted to the culture of medicinal plants. The large, diamond shaped lot at the side of the Home, having about one acre with a spring pond, will be enclosed with a wire fence and filled with fancy ducks. The large park containing some four acres and six mineral springs was named The Druggists' Mineral Spring Park. The summer house over the springs will be painted and put in shape and new stone work put around all the six mineral springs.

It was decided to open the entire lake front. A road will be opened about thirty feet back of the high water mark, extending along the lake front. This will be called Lake Shore Drive, and cottages will be erected on the street. About five acres nearest Main street will be opened as a park, and a boat platform be built where the old pavilion stood. At the Point, about an acre will be reserved for a small park, and bathing houses will be erected. This entire ground will be known as Lake Shore Park.

The National Association of Drug Clerks has made arrangements for their annual meeting in Chicago the latter part of June. This Association is composed of delegates from all the states, and has an attendance of about one hundred and fifty. They notified the trustees that if they could be entertained at the Home they would change their date to June 11 and 12 and come to Palmyra, and they were notified by the trustees to come. Rooms are already being reserved for the meeting.

Treating a Cold.

We like to think that we are much wiser, much more sensible and much further advanced than our ancestors, and so we are perhaps in many ways. Yet almost a hundred and forty years ago John Adams, who was working for his country like many other men and who had no idea that he would one day be president, and that his sayings would be worth quoting, prescribed the most modern sort of treatment for a cold—plenty of fresh air.

AFTON

Afton, April 1.—The Misses Annie and Hazel Moriarty, are spending a few days with their cousin Maggie Oakley.

Roy Robb and Henry Nohr leave tomorrow for North Dakota, where they will spend some time working. Miss Selma Hammel returned to Rockford to attend her sister, Mrs. Beckers who broke her arm some time ago.

Miss Evelyn Mueller attended the dance at Beloit Tuesday night. Mr. and Mrs. Gus Nohr spent Sunday in Beloit.

Mrs. Hoffman will be present at the church next Sunday, so every one is invited to come and hear her. Alex Jack is spending a few days with T. J. Oakley.

MILTON JUNCTION

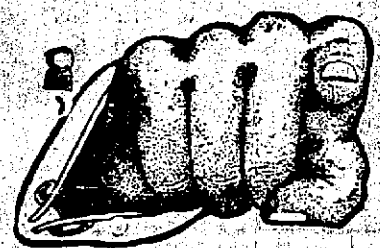

Milton Junction, April 2.—Mrs. Sleeter of Lima has been visiting Mrs. John Semón.

Henry Yale was an over Sunday guest at the home of his brother at Waterloo.

Irving Klitzke of Edgerton spent yesterday here. Ed. Schneider and family are moving to Whitewater.

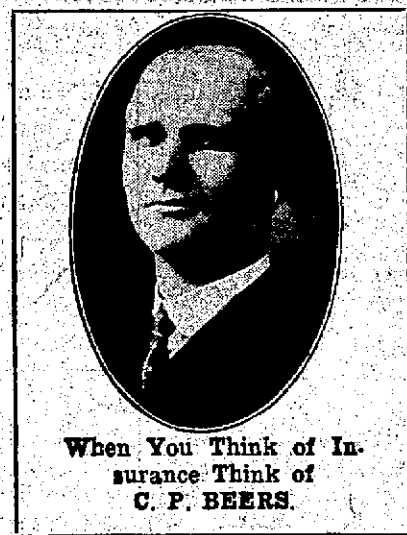

J. M. Gahagan and family are moving into the house recently vacated by Thomas Driver and family.

A large audience attended the concert at the M. E. church last night.

EIGHT STORES ON BRIDGE SWEEPED OUT BY FIRE WITH LOSS OF QUARTER MILLION

Flames Discovered Under Archie Reid Store Shortly Before Seven Tuesday Evening, Spread Destruction

PROMPT WORK SAVES THE CITY

Chief Klein and His Men With Aid From Rockford Confine Flames to Reid's, Rehberg's, Brown Bros., and Candy and Cigar Stores

With a loss aggregating between two hundred and three hundred thousand dollars, the stores of Archie Reid, Brown Bros., Amos Rehberg, the Olympia candy store and Miller and Schubert, but a twisted, smoking mass of refuse in the river, a total loss, the rear of J. F. Bailey & Son's dry goods store, gutted by the flames and damaged by smoke, the stock of the Golden Eagle damaged by smoke and water, the wholesale and retail liquor shop of Harry Thometz flooded and badly damaged, the Milwaukee street bridge so badly burned as to be practically ruined and the fact that the story of one of the worst fires that Janesville has ever experienced.

Just how the blaze started is a mystery. Apparently it was beneath the Reid store in the Carpenter block just almost before the first stream of water could be turned on the entire front was one blazing mass, the fire then communicated to Brown Bros. store next door to the west, and then spread under the Milwaukee street bridge threatening the Jackson block across the street.

Mounting heavenward the flames showed sparks on all the neighboring buildings, endangering the whole of the town retail district and but for prompt work on the part of Chief Klein, in ordering leads of hose to the roof of the Hayes block, up the alley in the rear of the stores facing Main street and through the Hockett building and bowling alleys on North Main street and thence along the river front to fight the flames from under the bridge the flames would have swept the entire center of the city and no one knows where they would have stopped.

Hardly had the first alarm of fire been sounded before it was seen that the Carpenter building, occupied by Archie Reid and the Sutherland block adjoining, where were located Brown Bros. shoe store and Amos Rehberg, were doomed. The two frame structures occupied by the Olympia candy store and Miller and Schubert were like tinder for the flames and every effort was devoted to prevent the conflagration spreading to the brick block owned by George Sutherland where the F. J. Bailey & Son and Golden Eagle stores were located.

That this latter building was saved was due to heroic work on the part of the firemen detailed to this work and the good judgment of Chief Klein and Assistant Chief Murphy, who directed the work. Mr. Sutherland, himself, aided materially, assisting a force of volunteers who did yeoman service.

Dr. A. P. Burrus, who had offices in the Carpenter block, was in his room when the fire started and was found, almost suffocated, groping his way down the stairway and taken to a place of safety.

Harry Thometz, who has apartments over his store in the Putnam block to the east of the Reid store, was also in his rooms and was aroused by the smell of smoke and managed to reach the street unharm although his apartments were ruined by smoke and water which was poured into them later to prevent the flames from spreading to that building.

Mayor James Fathers arrived on the scene early in the evening and at once advised with Chief Klein as to the advisability of calling for aid from adjacent cities as the fire at that time appeared to threaten the whole city.

Aid from Beloit was out of the question owing to the fact their hose did not fit the Janesville fire plugs, being an odd size. Rockford and Madison were the two nearest departments available and both were communicated with.

Not only did Chief Heil of Madison promise immediate aid, but Mayor Heilm of the Capital City took it upon himself to see the apparatus was loaded on a Northwestern flat car with a special engine.

Equally prompt was the reply from Rockford and Fire Chief Frank Thomas and ten of his fire-fighters with an engine and a thousand feet of hose was quickly loaded onto an Interurban car and rushed to Janesville, making the trip in one hour and twenty minutes.

While the engine was not used, being held in reserve, Chief Thomas and carried out the rear to a place of safety.

Shortly after the fire started, Chief Klein ordered the electric power shut off, to avoid serious accidents from high tension electric wires dropping and injuring firemen and pedestrians. This plunged the city in darkness and added confusion and terror to those who did not know the cause.

Theatres were darkened, stores depending on electric light were dark, and candles were used in the hotels and office buildings where anxious watchers waited to transport their valuables to a place of safety.

Power was turned on for a few minutes at nine-thirty, but danger from broken wires on the Milwaukee street bridge made it necessary to turn the current off again until ten-thirty when the streets were lighted.

Meanwhile the chief had ordered the fire engine into action and stationed it on the Milwaukee street bridge, chopping a hole through the plank to drop the suction pipe into the river.

In order to give light for the firemen to work by, three large automobiles were run up to the edge of the bridge and their powerful headlights turned on the scene.

Fire lines had been established half way down the block approaching the bridge from the east and a rope stretched, and officers were stationed there to prevent anyone reaching the danger zone. The same was done on the west approach of the bridge.

Meanwhile business men had interested themselves in aiding the firemen in their work and hot coffee and sandwiches were passed around to the workers. Later warm suppers were served both the local firemen and the Rockford Chief and his party at McDonald's restaurant, the money being pledged by the business men.

alarm was run in, it was impossible to even enter the Rehberg store, three stores west of the Reid store. John R. Horn, employed here, tried to unlock the front door to reach the books and his hand was burned by the heat of the iron door handle and the mass of smoke that greeted him drove him into the street.

D. Condos of the Olympia candy store lost everything. He had no insurance and estimates his present assets at thirteen dollars. Miller and Schubert, next door to the west, also in a total loss, there being no insurance.

It is understood that Amos Rehberg will be one of the heaviest sufferers, having just completed his spring stock purchasing and carrying a partial insurance. His stock will range from fifty to sixty thousand dollars.

Brown Bros. had about ten thousand dollars' insurance, it is understood, and carried a stock estimated variously from fifteen to twenty thousand dollars.

Archie Reid, Sr., is out of the city, in San Antonio, Texas, and his son, Archie Reid, Jr., last night estimated the loss at seventy-five thousand dollars, with partial insurance.

The Thometz stock is partially covered by insurance and his loss can not be estimated until the water is cleared from the building.

The law library and papers of the Carpenter and Carpenter law firm is a total loss, nothing being saved, with partial insurance. Other firms located in the upper stories of the structures destroyed, who lost everything, are the Knudson Sign company, F. J. Wurms tailor shop, Carpenter and Day, electricians; Hilton and Sadler architects; the First Christian church; William Isaac tailor shop, Dr. A. P. Burrus and George L. Hatch, whose humor and music was entirely destroyed.

F. J. Bailey and son's stock damage is estimated at about twelve thousand dollars, with insurance. The Golden Eagle's loss will be by smoke and water and damage to clothing moved. Howard's loss will be by water, as will the losses to Pond and Bailey and the Woolworth stocks. Smoke also did severe damage to the J. L. Ford and son clothing store, across the bridge, on the north side from the fire, and all their stock was lost.

Three attempts have been made to burn the Y. M. C. A. building here. The last attempt was last night when bath towels soaked in coal oil, three of which were found burning and scattered about the basement. There is no clew to the incendiary. One thousand dollars damage was done by the three fires.

Council Bluffs, Ia., April 2.—Three attempts have been made to burn the Y. M. C. A. building here. The last attempt was last night when bath towels soaked in coal oil, three of which were found burning and scattered about the basement. There is no clew to the incendiary. One thousand dollars damage was done by the three fires.

Madison, Wis., April 1.—Janesville, Madison, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh and Wausau are expected to have delegations present at the hearing on the Carpenter bill for the state fair removal Thursday afternoon before the finance committee. The bill provides for a committee of nine members to make an examination of all the proposed state fair sites and to report to the legislature within thirty days.

The various cities having sites to offer are expected to urge the enactment of the Carpenter bill so as to have opportunity later of presenting the feasibility of their respective sites to the legislative investigating committee. Within the past two weeks protests have been received from numerous exhibitors against present methods of conducting the fair at Milwaukee. These will be presented to the committee Thursday by former Mayor J. C. Schubert of this city.

Stevens Point, April 2.—John Murhe was selected county judge by a small plurality over W. F. Owen and A. L. Smongeski. The race between Cary and Kittle, very close, and while it is impossible to forecast the winner, either will have a majority of over 200.

Vote at Rhinelander. Rhinelander, April 2.—The vote on state superintendent of schools was: Cary 71, Kittle 177. Out of fifty-eight women who voted, Cary received 55 votes.

Kittle Gets Oshkosh. Oshkosh, April 2.—Winnebago county gave Cary for state superintendent 3,032, and Kittle 3,227.

Appleton Returns. Appleton, April 2.—Returns from Outagamie county, with the exception of two precincts, went for Cary with a count of 1,527. Kittle received 1,208 votes.

In Douglas County. Superior, April 2.—Twenty-one out of 31 precincts in Douglas county gave Cary 1,091, and Kittle 1,303.

Green Bay, April 2.—The total vote in the city of Green Bay for state superintendent of schools, gave Kittle 1,990, and Cary 1,835. Returns from other cities of Brown county are not yet in.

Wausau Returns. Wausau, April 2.—Out of the forty-eight precincts reported, F. E. Bunt has a lead of 283 over Clyde Warren for county judge. There are four precincts to be heard from, but Bunt will no doubt be elected. Out of three precincts Cary has a lead over Kittle and will undoubtedly carry the county.

Wausau Returns. Wausau, April 2.—Out of the forty-eight precincts reported, F. E. Bunt has a lead of 283 over Clyde Warren for county judge. There are four precincts to be heard from, but Bunt will no doubt be elected. Out of three precincts Cary has a lead over Kittle and will undoubtedly carry the county.

At Stevens Point. Stevens Point, April 2.—John Murhe was selected county judge by a small plurality over W. F. Owen and A. L. Smongeski. The race between Cary and Kittle, very close, and while it is impossible to forecast the winner, either will have a majority of over 200.

Vote at Rhinelander. Rhinelander, April 2.—The vote on state superintendent of schools was: Cary 71, Kittle 177. Out of fifty-eight women who voted, Cary received 55 votes.

Kittle Gets Oshkosh. Oshkosh, April 2.—Winnebago county gave Cary for state superintendent 3,032, and Kittle 3,227.

Appleton Returns. Appleton, April 2.—Returns from Outagamie county, with the exception of two precincts, went for Cary with a count of 1,527. Kittle received 1,208 votes.

Fire! Fire! Fire!

As the citizens of Janesville gazed on the seething mass of flames last night devouring all in their path, they realized how helpless they were to protect themselves at that immediate time and how foolish not to have taken the precaution at the proper time to see that they were protected by good substantial fire insurance.

If you will call on us now we will place you in a position that under like circumstances you will be reasonably well protected. We represent first class insurance companies.

SETTLE FINLEY CASE WITHOUT JURY'S AID

Counsel for Opposing Sides Reach Agreement This Afternoon at Close of Plaintiff's Case.

Counsel for Richard J. Finley, Attorneys, M. O. Mount and O. A. Oestreich and the St. Paul Railroad Company, C. H. Van Alstine and Thos. St. Nolan reached a settlement this afternoon in the damage case the trial of which was begun before Judge Grimm in the circuit court Monday. Terms of the settlement which was arrived at the close of the plaintiff's side of the case at three o'clock, were not announced.

SUGAR TARIFF ISSUE BECOMES MORE ACUTE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, April 2.—President Wilson's attitude toward certain features of the new tariff bill was the subject of a conference today by the democratic members of the house ways and means committee. The sugar tariff issue has become more acute as the result of reports today that the president and Mr. Underwood practically had agreed upon the removal of all duties from sugar with a provision that such change would not take effect immediately, but that sugar growers would have an opportunity to readjust themselves to the changed conditions.

CHIPPEWA ON RAMPAGE AND OVERFLOWING BANKS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chippewa Falls, April 2.—The Chippewa river is on a rampage. Icebergs have formed a dam one mile above the city and another fifteen miles above the city. Heavy rains during the night increased the streams until this water is now overflowing the bank and considerable surrounding country is submerged. There is no immediate danger expected in this city.

Change in Program at Apollo

Present Bill to Be Kept Over Thursday. Owing to the fact that there was no show at the Apollo last night on account of the fire, the bill will be held and given Thursday afternoon and evening. The present bill is one of the best that has appeared here since the opening of the theatre and since it was impossible for them to show last night the management feel that the public is entitled to the extra night. Shows will be given both afternoon and evening tomorrow. The program includes Steel and Mc Masters in a comedy skating act, brim full of fun; Lucia Reynolds in a pianologue; Joe Lavender in an eccentric singing, dancing and talking act and Cora Simpson in a comedy sketch. "We want our rights." The program is one full of fun and good humor and has proven very popular with Janesville audiences.

EIGHT STORES ON THE BRIDGE SWEEPED OUT BY DANGEROUS FIRE

Had there been a high wind blowing nothing could have saved the city from destruction. Almost from the first stores destroyed were doomed and the efforts were directed to save the adjacent buildings. On every roof men were stationed to put out the flying sparks, that showered up as wall after wall of the burned buildings fell into the river.

With the turning off of the electric power many of these men were marooned there for hours or managed to reach the ground by climbing down ladders.

As the refuse from the burning building fell into the river, it formed a partial dam and backed up the water, causing a gradual rise of some eight inches in a few minutes, basements on North Main street being flooded as during the high water last week.

Calls for help in handling the heavy hose by Chief Klein met with ready response from hundreds of young men and many business men hauled and tugged at long stretches of twisting hose, some even being knocked down when the water was suddenly turned on.

Chief Klein directed the fire-fighting from the east side of the bridge with Assistant Chiefs Murphy and Osgood handling the flames from the west approach. At times the pipemen were driven back to safety by the heat of the flames, which shot out as though impelled by an unseen power.

One of the most noticeable features of the entire fire was the terrible, sickening black smoke that evidenced itself at the very outset of the conflagration. It rolled in masses from under the bridge and Reid store as though tar, oil and paints were all burning. So intense was this smoke and over-powering that even those who reached the burning structures first were unable to enter the buildings at all.

Archie Reid, Jr. had left his store at six-thirty-five, and says everything was all right then. Yet within twenty minutes the fire was discovered, a roaring mass of flames, shooting under the entire row of buildings; across the river under the bridge and up through the flooring to the inflammable material within.

Mr. Reid arrived on the scene almost as soon as the fire department, having just reached his home on St. Lawrence avenue, but so intense was the heat he could not even gain an entrance through the rear or front of the building.

Carter and Morse removed their valuable papers from their insurance office which was in the Putnam block, access to which was cut off by the burning of the stairway, through a window.

The books, papers and cash register in the United Cigar company's store were also carried to safety although none of the stock was damaged. Many attorneys in both the Jackson and Hayes blocks removed their papers and valuables to places of safety, fearing the spread of the fire to those two buildings.

As the fire crept along the bridge it was feared the whole block, if not the entire city was doomed as store after store caught and was consumed in but a few minutes it seemed as though the whole block must go, until the blaze reached the brick wall at the east side of the R. J. Bailey and Sons store.

When the fire reached here the iron sheeting protecting the building crumpled up and fell into the river with the intense heat. As the Miller and Schubert Cigar store became engulfed in flames the foundations of the building at the east side gave and tipped the building into the river.

This undoubtedly saved further damage as it left a large space between the approaching flames and the Bailey store. Here the flames swept toward the building but the space between them afforded the firemen an excellent chance of doing effective work in checking the fire. But soon the flames leaped past the wall and the rear end of the store was in flames. This however, checked before any serious damage could be done.

When the fire began advancing across the bridge and fear was held by store owners that nothing could stop the ravaging flames, work was started to remove the stock from the stores. The Golden Eagle was first and a long line of eager people went into the building, which at this time was filled with smoke. Nearly all suits, hats, ties, and shirts were taken out quickly and carried across the street into the Smith Drug store and Kimball furniture store.

At Howard's store, his stock is in a bad condition at it is in a hopeless jumble. At Harry Raneous' Drug store work was also done in removing all contents of valuable stock.

The work of salvaging the goods was a wise precaution for the fire itself did little damage here, but smoke and water would have worked havoc among the goods and the Pond and Bailey store was practically flooded.

All goods that were taken from the threatened buildings were deposited in the stores on the north side of the street, and it will take some time for owners to be able to sort their goods for they were thrown down in mad haste and are piled in a hopeless confusion.

As far as could be learned no one took advantage of looting the goods and the owners of the stores found plenty of willing hands to aid in the work.

At the Brown Brothers store nothing was rescued and Edward Brown, the manager was at the Appleby home for supper and knew nothing of the fire until he came down town and saw his store in ruins in the river this was the first that he knew of the catastrophe. The Brown Bros. carried about ten thousand dollars insurance on their property and this does not fully cover their loss.

King Midas
FLOUR

The highest priced flour in America and worth all it costs.

Fire underneath the bridge and the Archie Reid store was discovered by Dennis McGinley and Patrolman Harry Smith at fifteen minutes to seven through the thin lines of smoke that issued from the crevices in the planks. McGinley at once turned in an alarm from box 7, which is located on the bridge and in less than two minutes time the fire apparatus from the west side station was on the ground. By this time great volumes of dense black smoke were pouring from under the bridge and windows in front of the Archie Reid store were cracking and forced out by the heat with the sound and rapidity of rifle-shots, jetting out tongues of flame from the burning interior. Before water could be played on the flames three distinct explosions were heard by the firemen and simultaneously the front of the store was blown out.

From this time on the progress of the fire was so rapid that all hope of saving the Reid store was given up, and the efforts of the firemen were devoted almost exclusively to protect the Hayes block, the building occupied by Carter & Morse, H. S. Thompson and the United Cigar store, and to prevent the spread of the fire to the westward. In accomplishing this purpose they were only partially successful; for it was but a few moments before the Brown Bros. shoe store was ablaze at both front and rear, and the progress of the flames was unchecked until the Rehberg stores, the Miller & Schubert cigar store and the Olympian fruit store had been consumed or dropped into the river. The fire was halted at the east wall of the R. J. Bailey and Sons store.

Large quantities of burning, blazing material floated down the river, threatening to communicate the fire to the frame buildings on the Court street bridge, and to be prepared to protect them if necessary, the fire engine was spotted at the east end of the bridge. When it became apparent that there was no further danger of the fire extending in that direction the engine was removed to the east end of the Milwaukee street bridge. There it was steamed up and supplied water to a large turret nozzle mounted on one of the hose wagons. The stream was played on the roof and west side of the Putnam building, where fire smoldered throughout the evening, occasionally breaking into flame, and at times was directed to the floor of the bridge.

Almost from the time the fire began the Milwaukee street bridge was impassable for fire apparatus as the horses could not be forced through the dense smoke that hung over it. All heavy equipment had to be brought around by way of the Court street bridge, but care was taken to keep down the fire on the Milwaukee street structure so that the firemen could work with ladders and the lines of hose be kept intact. Pipes were cut in the floor and two cellar pipes enabled the firemen to fight the fire from underneath. Automobiles one of which was stationed at either end of the bridge, assisted the firemen by illuminating the bridge with their searchlights. The current in all light and power wires was turned off about an hour after the fire started to protect the firemen and spectators of the fire from live wires, and from that time on the firemen's lanterns and searchlights, the glare of the fire and electric flashlights was the only light to direct the firemen in their work.

Practically every able-bodied person in the city of Janesville was a witness of the fire. Court street bridge, the best position from which to view the conflagration was covered with people. Milwaukee street, for nearly a block on either side of the bridge was crowded almost from curb to curb, and the view from the sidewalks with spectators. The crowd was very good natured and manageable, readily obeying the orders of the policemen and opening to give the firemen way to the fire apparatus that passed back and forth at frequent intervals. Fire lines were stretched at either end of the Milwaukee street bridge; but after the fire was known to be under control people were permitted to press beyond them.

This morning the police department began roping off the bridge and building a protection only allowing people to cross on the street car track. The fire was still burning in the piles and foundation and every precaution is being taken for the safety of the public.

Mayor Fathers was on hand throughout the evening to give what assistance he could to the fire-fighters. With other citizens he helped cut holes in the floor of the bridge, attended to the operation of the cellar pipes, and did other work that enabled the firemen to give their attention where it was most needed.

The conflagration was exceedingly spectacular, especially as viewed from the Court Street bridge. From time to time during the earlier part of the fire, a vivid greenish-blue flame was seen to burst out near the scene of its origin, evidently issuing from the end of a severed gas pipe. Flames mounted to great heights, fresh outbursts, marking the progress of the fire. The river was dotted with blazing fragments that were continually dropping away from the burning building, and the sky so vividly illuminated that pigeons and even wild geese flying at a distance were clearly outlined.

The Milwaukee Street bridge and its approaches presented a singular sight. Flames and smoke issued from numerous openings and around the edges, automobile searchlights threw their beams across it, firemen and citizens assisting them were continually going to and fro carrying lanterns and flashlights. Sidewalks were piled with furniture and goods carried out of the burning or threatened buildings, and the windows of stores were illuminated by numerous wax candles.

Rehberg Opens Offices. Amos Rehberg opened offices this morning in the Commercial club's office, in the Jackson building and expresses his intention of continuing his business as soon as he can make the necessary arrangements. It is doubtful whether the firm of Brown Brothers will re-open in business, according to a statement by Edward Brown today.

Had Narrow Escape. William Isaac, who runs a tailoring establishment above the Archie Reid store narrowly escaped death last night and it was only because of prompt assistance that he was not badly injured. He was working at his office and did not hear the alarm when the fire started. When the fire department arrived he realized what danger he was in, and started to escape from the building. The fire had progressed to such an extent that the hall was filled with smoke and he was overcome by it. He fell down the stairway and was struck by the full force of a lead of hose that was being played upon the building. When he fell down the stairs he struck the side and had a bad gash cut in his head. The force of the water knocked him down and he was helpless. Father Henry Willmann saw the danger that the man was in and helped him to safety, and Dr. Charles Stedman was called to treat the flow of blood issuing from the gash in his head.

This morning Mr. Isaac, who is sixty-six years of age, was in a very critical condition, the exposure that he was forced to undergo threatening him with pneumonia.

Mrs. Schwartz residing on Milwaukee avenue, badly injured her arm when she fell over a lead of hose. In the darkness she did not notice the hose and stumbled over it, falling down and nearly breaking her arm.

Amos Rehberg has opened temporary offices in the Commercial club's office in the Jackson block. Mr. Rehberg will continue in business as soon as he can find a location and secure a new stock of goods.

Archie Reid, Jr. is waiting for definite word from his father as to their plans and expects him to arrive home shortly.

Whether Brown Bros. continue in business or not remains to be seen, if a suitable location can be found. The other occupants of the buildings destroyed will find temporary offices in various office buildings at once.

With the great loss of property and stock that was consumed by the fire it is estimated that there are seven safes all containing valuable papers and some of them money. It is reported that Amos Rehberg's safe contained about three hundred dollars from Monday's receipts, and this together with valuable accounts is at the bottom of the river, a heavy loss. The safe of Archie Reid is said to have contained the day's receipts also.

With the tons of brick and debris that is covering the safes, it will make their recovery extremely difficult. The business men who have offices above the ruined buildings all give reports of heavy losses due to the burning of valuable papers and their business will be hopelessly entangled.

Port Shop Shots by Dad McCort

Joe Benz, pitcher with the Chicago White Sox, has a hot temper which his teammates delight in irritating. At lunch the other day the players sat at a big table. Joe came in late, to find only one place left, at the head of the table. When he sat down all the players applauded loudly and called for a speech. Joe jumped from his seat and strode out of the hotel in a towering anger, an opposing pitcher.

Players like Clyde Milan of the Washington Senators are of more than apparent value to a baseball team. Milan, champion basestealer of the American League last season, has announced that he is not going out for a new record this year. If he does get away with more than his 88 of last year, well, and good, but he does not intend to sacrifice the welfare of the team for his own personal ambition. He hopes to be the greatest benefit to the team by leading the league in posing players to believe that he is going to steal when he really does not. Such a ruse helps greatly in frustrating an opposing pitcher.

Packey McFarland says that if Jim Jeffries decides to come back he'll fight the former heavy weight champion and beat him too. Packey says: "Back in 1908, he refereed my bout with Freddie Welsh. During the 25 rounds he drank 21 bottles of beer and made about 100 cigarettes. At the end he declared the bout a draw, although I had won by two city blocks. I'd just like to put on the gloves with Jeff to show him that he never can come back."

The Pacific coast is looking forward to two championship battles on the Fourth of July. Jim Coffroth is arranging a bout between Willie Ritchie, lightweight champion, and Freddie Welsh of England for the real title. This will be the 133-pound title. It can make that weight. Tom McCarty of Los Angeles is trying to bring Luther McCarthy and either Gunboat Smith or Bombardier Wells together at Vernon for the heavyweight title.

Gunboat Smith, the aggressive prize fighter, who sent the British champion, Bombardier Wells, to a most surprisingly deep and dreamless sleep, has become known as the possessor of the "occipital punch." It's the one with which Gunboat knocked out Bombardier. It gets its name from the fact that it lands on the occipital bone, a large bone at the back of the skull. Through an aperture in the lower part of it passes the end of the spinal cord. The blow is a downward curving hook delivered with either right or left hand. It is even more completely soporific than the old favorite jolt to the jaw or the solar plexus punch. To that Wells can feelingly testify.

JANESVILLE FIVE DECIDES NOT TO PLAY AT EVANSTON

The local high school basketball five will not enter the tournament at Evanston for the championship of the middle west. This was announced last night, and the Evanston Y. M. C. A. was notified. The reason is that the locals had planned to enter the high school tourney at the university there, but owing to the postponement of this tourney and another one taking its place, the locals thought that they would have little chance of playing against such teams as will enter. In fact, it is not a high school tourney, because independent teams are entering, many of these teams being of a high calibre. The locals feel that if they did enter, they could hold their own, and perhaps gain second or third place, and perhaps first, but it would mean little to the school if they did this. Arrangements are now under way to send the team to some neutral place and have them play Galesburg for the championship of the inter-state.

The Galesburg high school of Illinois are champions of the Sucker State, and the money already collected from the business men will be entered in this fund. This is about the same as entering an inter-state tournament, for if they had entered the high school tournament at Northwestern University, they would have played Galesburg anyway. It will be cheaper to play them under the now proposed plan.

DUKE OF SAXE-MEININGEN OLDEST LIVING MONARCH. Berlin, April 2.—The Emperor sent a message of warm congratulation to the Duke of Saxe-Meiningen, who completed his eighty-seventh year today. He has always been remarkably popular among his subjects on account of his liberal policy.

HANOVER

Hanover, April 2.—Election passed off very quietly, the town going dry by 31 majority. Those who were elected were: C. O. Onsgard, chairman; George Hatton and Charles Scheel, side supervisors; M. Ehrlinger, town clerk; George Schaffner, town treasurer and C. Tew, assessor.

While playing at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Ellis, Ellis Hatton of Beloit, accidentally fell, breaking the bone in his elbow in three places. Oscar Jensen visited relatives in Brodhead last week. Clayton and Rennie Jackson and Chauncey Bertram were Janesville visitors Saturday.

Miss Rachel Ehrlinger spent the week in Beloit and Janesville, visiting relatives. Percy Brown of Scranton, Pa., spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ellis. Mrs. Burdette is visiting her son at Highland Park, Ill. Myrtle Dabson of Janesville spent Saturday with her sister, Nellie Dabson.

Made your rheumatic pains come from your stomach, liver and kidney troubles. Electric Bitters will give you prompt relief. 50c and $1.00. Recommended by People's Drug Store."

EXAMINATION DATES FOR CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., April 2.—The state civil service commission has announced examinations to be held at Rhinelander, Ashland and Cameron on April 14, 15 and 16, respectively, for positions as deputy state fish and game warden for the following senatorial districts: No. 11 (Burnett, Douglas and Washburn counties); No. 12 (Ashland, Bayfield, Price, Rusk and Sawyer counties); and No. 30 (Florence, Forest, Iron, Lincoln, Oneida, Taylor and Vilas counties). Similar tests will be given at Appleton, April 12, for the fourteenth district, comprising Outagamie and Shawano counties. The preferred ages are 25 to 50 years and the compensation $2.50 per day and expenses. Forty additional deputies are needed for special temporary service in patrolling the northern counties. An examination for inspector of public utility accounts (state railroad commission) will be held April 26 at the county seats.

What Was Worrying Him. A taxicab caught fire in New York. The flames reached the gasoline tank. The two passengers, who had come a long way, tumbled out. The fire department was summoned. "Play on the meter!" shrieked the distracted driver to the firemen. "Never mind the cab—play on the meter!"

CARTER & MORSE, Agents

TO THE JANESVILLE PUBLIC

I wish to congratulate the Fire and Police Departments on their excellent work in fighting the big fire Tuesday night. I also wish to thank the business neighbors and friends who so kindly assisted in the taking out and putting back of our stock and fixtures.

As soon as the loss is adjusted and the store is put in shape we will be ready to receive the patronage which we have enjoyed and appreciated to such a liberal share, in the short season we have been in your midst.

JANESVILLE'S LOSS:

Fire in all its horror and destructiveness wiped out the very heart of Janesville's retail district on the Milwaukee street bridge last evening and for a time threatened the entire business district of the city. Starting, as it did, under a store filled with inflammable material, it swept the entire south side of the bridge, until stopped by heroic work of the firemen and a providential brick wall at the property owned by George G. Sutherland. Today nothing but a mass of twisted ruins, floating down the stream, show where prosperous business houses stood early last evening. That the loss was not greater, that the entire line of structures on the Milwaukee street bridge did not go down to destruction was due to the work of the chief of the fire department, Henry C. Klein. Despite frequent counsel from interested citizens, he handled the fire in a masterful manner and through his untiring efforts the blaze was confined to the buildings which now lie a mass of ruins. Janesville grieves with the sufferers from the conflagration, but must stop and congratulate the work of the brave fire-fighters and their able chief, and that the entire business district was not consumed.

ROCKFORD WORK:

The able assistance rendered Janesville, the prompt response to aid by the Rockford fire chief and the Rockford Interurban company, in transporting the firemen and fire apparatus to this city, deserve the thanks of every citizen. In less than two hours from the time the appeal for aid went across the telephone, the interurban had furnished the motive power, and Chief Thomas of the Rockford department and his fire ladders, with an engine and a thousand feet of hose, were in Janesville ready to meet any emergency. It was prompt work and Janesville is grateful. Perhaps it may be able to show its appreciation at some future date, but it is hoped our sister city may never face such a threatened conflagration of the entire business district as will necessitate their appeal for help. Madison's department also answered the appeal, and was on its way here as fast as steam power could bring it when it was decided the fire was under control and its services were not needed. It is this spirit of friendship that brings us all in closer touch with each other in time of need and Janesville is grateful. Beilolt would have come, but unfortunately their hose and apparatus does not fit Janesville fire plugs and would have been useless.

GET TOGETHER:

Now is the time for Janesville citizens to get together and boost. The city has been visited by fire and the loss is enormous, but Janesville civic pride and Janesville united can overcome even this obstacle. Get together and boost. Make your slogan "Twenty-five Thousand or Bust" and watch the results. Join the business men, the working men, the property owners in forming one gigantic Boosters' club and attend the mass meeting April 15 at the Myers theatre. Boost for Janesville, first, last, and all the time.

Now that the fire has settled the question of repairs for the Milwaukee street bridge it is to be hoped no more money will be wasted in temporary repairs, and Janesville can have a bridge that it may be proud of.

It takes a fire or some great disaster to bring out and develop men. Last night hundreds of young men and some older ones, aided in the work of the firemen to the best of their ability.

The view down the Rock river looking south from the Milwaukee street bridge, looks strange today to even the oldest resident, and it is hoped that the structures will not be rebuilt despite the ruling of the supreme court of times past.

Sympathy is expressed on every side for the property owners and the owners of stores destroyed, who lost their all, or a good portion of it, by the flames. It is more than a personal calamity—it is a civic one as well.

Candles were at a premium last night when the electric lights were shut off and the question, "Where was Moses when the lights went out?" ceased to be a joke.

Do not forget those flood sufferers and their need for immediate relief in this hour of chaos in our own business interests.

RIOTS IN ZION CITY ON USE OF TOBACCO

Dispute Between Voliva and Employee In One of City's Factories Causes An Uproar.

Zion City, Ill., April 2.—One woman was arrested on a disorderly charge and several men were injured in a street car fight between Zion City crusaders and City Marshal John L. Hoover, today. The trouble grew out of the dispute between Wilbur Glenn Voliva, head of the church founded by John Alexander Dowie and an employee of the Cook Electrical Company last night. Three thousand church members gathered across the street from the Cook factory after holding an enthusiastic religious meeting, urged the employees of the Cook concern to join their ranks and stop using tobacco.

City Marshal John J. Hoover, acting under orders from acting Mayor W. F. Miller dispersed the crowd after warning the leaders that he would arrest them if another attempt were made to hold a street meeting near the Cook plant.

Today fifty crusaders formed in line near the Zion tabernacle and started to march to the factory. Hoover and four deputies halted them and ordered them to disperse, but they ignored the order. One of the leaders read several excerpts from the Bible and the others joined in singing a hymn.

Finally Hoover and his men charged the crowd and in the excitement three men were hit over the heads with clubs and slightly injured. John Darling who is blind was one of the men alleged to have been injured.

Later a number of women formed in line and attempted to march toward the Cook plant, but were attacked by Hoover and his men who are said to have knocked down Mrs. Sallie Mitchell 76 years old. Mrs. John Henry and Miss Ellen A. Lloyd, who refused to disperse when ordered to do so. Miss Lloyd was later arrested but the others were allowed to go.

PHILADELPHIA OFFICIALS GET JAIL SENTENCES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Philadelphia, April 2.—Henry Clay, former director of the department of public safety and Colonel John R. Wiggins and Willard H. Wall, head of the Wiggins Construction Company, building contractors, were today sentenced to serve not less than 18 months nor more than two years imprisonment for conspiring to defraud the city. It was testified that soon after Clay assumed office bogus contracts were made with the Wiggins Company involving large sums.

INSURANCE LOSSES HARD TO ESTIMATE AT PRESENT TIME

Reid, Rehberg, Brown Bros., Olympic Fruit Store and Miller & Schubert's Total Losses.

It will be hard to make a complete estimate of the losses of Tuesday night's fire and the insurance carried until all the stock of F. J. Bailey and Son, The Golden Eagle, Howard, H. S. Tometz, The Ford Clothing Co., and other losses by the conflagration are estimated correctly. The Archie Reid Company is estimated to have lost twenty thousand seven hundred insurance. Amos Rehberg had forty-five thousand dollars worth of stock with but nineteen thousand insurance and Brown Bros., eighteen thousand with nine thousand insurance.

The Olympic Fruit company had a loss of two thousand dollars with no insurance and Miller & Schubert a similar loss with no insurance. Harry Thometz carried twenty-five hundred insurance which will be an almost total loss from water. Edwin F. Carpenter had thirteen thousand insurance on his block, valued at twenty thousand. The Golden Eagle twenty-four thousand on their stock damaged by smoke, water and removal.

It is estimated that F. J. Bailey & Son had a twenty-five thousand dollar stock with eleven thousand insurance their damage is by water and smoke and removal. Fred Blakely had a total loss. Alton and Sadler a total loss, estimated at a thousand dollars. Knutson, two hundred dollars, total loss. Dr. Burris, four hundred dollars total loss. Isaac's tailor shop, three hundred dollars, total loss. Wilcox & Cramer forty-five hundred insurance loss from smoke. Howard six thousand insurance loss smoke and water. The Hayes building damage. The Putnam building damage fire and water covered by insurance. George Hatch estimated thousand dollars, including a valuable harp. Carter and Morse three hundred and fifty dollars on office furniture covered by insurance. Carpenter and Carpenter, law library and office fixtures, total loss, five thousand no insurance. Building occupied by Brown Bros. and Amos Rehberg, Carpenter and Sutherland total loss, estimated forty thousand partial insurance. There will be a loss on the Ford Clothing Co., stock covered by insurance and also on the building through broken windows.

Other persons who lost, with no insurance F. J. Wurms, tailor shop, L. B. Smith Fountain Pen Co., L. D. Barker news agent, Carpenter and Day electricians and the First Christian church.

CONCERT IS GIVEN WHILE FLAMES RAGE

Jones Concert Company Gives Program at Baptist Church While Fire Threatens City.

While fire was threatening to wipe out the down-town district last night the Jones concert company gave a very excellent program of vocal and instrumental music at the Baptist church as the last number of the entertainment course given under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society. There was a fair sized audience who stayed throughout the program, realizing that it was useless to add their presence to the throngs which gathered at the scene of the fire. Many preferred not to view such terrible destruction when they could do nothing of service.

As the flames subsided there were others who came to enjoy the concert. Mr. Jones, his two sons and two daughters and their accompanist composed the troupe and every one was an artist. They gave their selections with a naturalness that was most pleasing and their selections were keenly appreciated.

Mr. Jones in a brief address gave a vivid description of their experience in the flood district last week when their train was wrecked in one of the raging streams of the Ohio region. On this account their engagement here was delayed one week.

A certain large engineering firm lately received an order in Russian, and, although the receiver of it had a fair knowledge of the language, there were two words he was unable to translate. Somewhere in the works, however, a real Russian was employed. They brought him along, and he read the letter carefully, but was still puzzled by these two words. Literally, he explained their meaning was "hot stockings," which seemed absurd, but was presently seen to be the nearest-known Russian synonym for "fire hose."—Manchester Guardian.

A Store For Everybody

Ours is a store for everybody—a great institution. It is permeated with an atmosphere of style—a characteristic which not only covers the more elaborate merchandise—or garment—but reaches even to the most inexpensive lines we sell. Indeed, it is an atmosphere of style correctness in everything in which style is concerned; and style of necessity is linked to quality. There is another feature equally important as style and quality—right prices. We do not cater to any particular class but aim to supply the demand for medium priced, good merchandise as well as the more expensive grades. Just now we are emphasizing tailored suits at $14, $18, $20, Coats at $12, $18 and $20.

STATEMENT ON FIRE BY MAYOR FATHERS; NEW BRIDGE CERTAIN

Special Meeting of Council This Afternoon to Take Steps Toward Replacing Structure.

"Nothing that ought to have been done was left undone," said Mayor Fathers this morning in commenting on the work of the Janesville fire department in fighting the fire last night. "They are certainly entitled to high praise for the efforts they put forth, and I have not the slightest criticism to make of their conduct. It was all that any reasonable person could expect."

Rockford Firemen Saved Bridge.
"Had not the Rockford firemen arrived and rendered such trustworthy service not a stick would have remained of the deck of the Milwaukee Street bridge. At the time they came the Janesville firemen were too nearly exhausted to cut holes on the bridge, and furthermore their services were needed to man the apparatus and fight the fire in the buildings at either end."

New Bridge Certainty.
"A new bridge permanent construction will replace the Milwaukee Street structure. Redesigning as was previously planned is entirely out of the question, for the underpinning of the bridge and the beams supporting the deck are damaged beyond repair. A special meeting of the council to take the first steps toward replacing the ruined bridge, will be held this afternoon, and as soon as decision is made as to the kind of bridge to be built, and estimates as to its cost obtained, a special election will be called to bond the city for its construction. My own preferences are for a solid concrete bridge but other permanent constructions may be decided upon."

Will Clear River.
"Instructions were given a channel through the wreckage that is obstructing the flow of the river below the bridge have been issued to J. P. Cullen and he will lose no time in getting to work. Men will be stationed at the Court Street and lower bridges to prevent it from lodging against the piers and causing further trouble."

Madison Relief Halted.
"The Madison apparatus had been loaded on the cars in record time and was going out of the yards when arrested by a telegraph message that its services would not be needed. The council will formally express its gratitude to both the Rockford and Madison fire departments."

Strict Building Regulations.
"Rebuilding of the burned business blocks on the bridge, if permitted at all will be under such strict regulations that whosoever desires to do so will think twice before going ahead. Nothing but strictly fire-proof buildings will be permitted."

Beloit Offers Aid.
At least three times during the evening Mayor L. E. Cunningham called the Gazette office to inquire in regard to the fire and to offer any aid which it would be possible for Beloit to give. He asked whether the Beloit hose lines would be of service here and expressed the utmost regret when he learned that they could not be used on the Janesville mains. "I am terribly sorry about this," said Mayor Cunningham. "It is an awful calamity and Beloit is anxious to give assistance. Let us know if there is need for men or any kind of equipment that we can supply."

When the Rockford engine and crew left for Janesville the telephone call was sent ahead to the Beloit agent who notified Mayor Cunningham that the special car was on the way to Janesville and that if Beloit had anything to be sent up to have it in readiness.

CHARLES BLOW FALLS FROM ROOF OF HOUSE

Seriously Injured Late Yesterday Afternoon While Working at Home of M. G. Jeffris.

Charles Blow, a painter, residing at 121 Madison street, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon by falling from the roof of the M. G. Jeffris home, 502 St. Lawrence avenue. He fell a distance of about thirty feet, alighting on his head. The ambulance was at once summoned and he was conveyed to Mercy hospital. Because of the break in the telephone wires last night it was impossible to learn his condition this morning. He was in a very dangerous condition last evening and his recovery deemed doubtful. He was in an unconscious condition suffering injuries to his head and spine.

EDWIN F. CARPENTER IS CANDIDATE FOR MUNICIPAL JUDGE

Announces His Intention of Seeking Appointment to Fill Out Judge Fifield's Term.

With the election of Judge Charles L. Fifield to the office of probate judge, Edwin F. Carpenter this afternoon announced his candidacy for appointment to fill out Judge Fifield's unexpired term. That he will receive the hearty endorsement of a good number of the members of the county bar association as well as citizens generally is evidenced by the talk heard on the streets today. Mr. Carpenter has been a practicing attorney in Janesville since 1871, having come to the city in 1870 and having studied in the old law firm of Cassidy, Merrill and Dixon. He has been circuit court commissioner for the past twenty years. Mr. Carpenter was one of the heavy losers by last night's fire, his law library valued at five thousand dollars as well as his building, which was occupied by Archie Reid, were total losses.

Mr. Carpenter is the first candidate for the office which under the state laws will be made by appointment for Judge Fifield's unexpired term and the provisions of section 2523 Chapter 651 laws of 1907.

Commercial Club Makes Arrangements for Expert to Salvage Valuables From River Immediately.

A special meeting of the directors of the Commercial club was called this afternoon at two o'clock to arrange to have a diver go to work immediately to recover the safes belonging to the various firms and individuals which went into the river as a result of the fire last evening. The importance of recovering these safes speedily is great, as the books and papers contained therein are necessary to the owners. Secretary Lane was instructed to arrange for the employment of Charles Gunderson, the diver who has been at work with the Cleary-White Construction company on the railroad bridge north of the city. Supt. Burgett, in charge of the city work, kindly offered his services in getting Gunderson, who is at present in Chicago. It is thought the can be ready for work Thursday morning.

The Commercial club, by unanimous vote, offers its services to those who suffered from the fire. Letters from the club thanking them for their splendid service in responding to Janesville's call for aid will be sent to the Rockford and Madison fire departments.

INCENDIARY SET FIRE TO BRIDGE BUILDINGS STATES CHIEF KLEIN

"Had Work of New York and Chicago Fire-bugs Beaten to Frazzle"—His Story of Fire.

"An incendiary set fire to the building on the Milwaukee street bridge," said Chief of the Fire Department Klein when interviewed this morning. "He had the work of the most skillful fire-bugs of New York and Chicago beaten to a frazzle. I have absolutely no reason to believe that the fire originated in any other manner than as stated. It started under the bridge and the Archie Reid store where nothing but a human hand could have kindled it."

J. F. Baker, an attorney from the state fire marshal's office at Madison, arrived here this morning, and made a preliminary investigation of the fire, which under the circumstances is exceedingly difficult.

"I was at my supper," said Chief Klein, "when the alarm was sounded, and had my first glimpse of the fire as I stepped to the front of Taylor brothers' store. From that position the smoke could be seen pouring out of the front of the Archie Reid store and from underneath the bridge. By the time I arrived the entire building was enveloped in flames. I detailed Assistant Chiefs Osgood and Murphy to the west side of the bridge, reserving to myself the protection of the buildings on the east side. All the experienced firemen, with the exception of two, were left to fight the fire on the west side. The rest in my employ were comparatively inexperienced."

"Twelve lines of hose were deployed from the waterworks mains, but two of these were quickly cut off as they reduced the pressure to a point where the streams were made inefficient. The fire engine was 'spotted' near the Court street bridge and when it became apparent that it would not be needed in that quarter it was transferred to the Milwaukee street bridge. Three lines of hose supplied by the engine were slamed into the large turret nozzle which threw a solid stream one and three-quarter inches in diameter at the rate of over a thousand gallons a minute."

"I was appealed to by a number of business men to call for help from Beloit and answered them very sharply as I had no time to make explanations then. My reasons for not asking for aid from Beloit was that at the time there was no use to which the apparatus could be put, in view of the fact that we were taking every gallon of water from the waterworks that I deemed feasible. Further, the couplings used by the Beloit department would not fit our hydrants, hose, or nozzles. They have a thread known as the 'Standard,' which runs seven and one-half to an inch, while Janesville has what is known as a 'Bastard' thread, seven to an inch. As soon as we learned the seriousness of the fire I sent word to Mayor Fathers to appeal to the Rockford and Madison departments for a steam fire engine and one thousand feet of hose."

"There was great danger of the fire spreading through the medium of the bridge, where a slight draft inclined toward the east end, and carrying the flames underneath the structure, to the basement windows of the Jackson block. Had the fire gained an entrance here it would quickly have found its way to the elevator shaft and the building would have been doomed."

"Another hard fight was made at the rear of the Thometz saloon to prevent the fire from being communicated to the Hayes block which, with its large number of window openings on the river side, was especially vulnerable. The streams were played from this point. First, we communicated to the Carter and Morse building through the ceiling joists which extended into the Reid store, and burned for a long time between the ceiling and roof."

"Not until all other resources were known to be exhausted was the fire engine pressed into service. It was held in reserve to afford some means of fighting the fire should the bridge and the lines of hose across it be destroyed. We also had extra hose in reserve."

"Citizens rendered the department valuable service. Some of the volunteers were more in the way than help, but I was pleased to have the opportunity to make a selection from them. Sheriff Whipple gave us good help and the police are entitled to great credit for the manner in which they assisted the department. The Rockford firemen were valuable aides and conducted themselves in a most becoming, gentlemanly manner."

"It was at my order that the electric lighting current was turned off, and against them that it was turned on later in the evening. The mayor and police officers were sent to the Electric company's office to have the current again turned off. There was danger that the terrific heat might melt one of the 2,200 volt wires and electrocute firemen or other people on the bridge. Broken wires falling across the trolley circuit caused the brilliant electric flashes seen."

"A number of our men were cut by broken glass but none seriously hurt. One man had a thumb dislocated and he was ordered by the mayor to secure the services of a physician."

"I had long recognized the possibility of a dangerous fire on the bridge and thought out a means of combating it. Only yesterday I was in the rear of the burned buildings with Mayor Fathers and told him what course would have to be pursued in case of a fire there. Had it passed the Sutherland fire wall we would have had to make our stand at the rear of the Woolworth store."

The Spirella Company, incorporated of Meadville, Pa., manufacturers of corsets, will hold a reception and demonstration of Spirella corsets at Library hall, Thursday evening from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock. The ladies of the city are cordially invited. No one will be asked to buy a corset. Miss Luella Binkelman, special demonstrator, will be present.

FIRE CRIPPLED THE TELEPHONE SERVICE

Big Cables Under the Bridge Destroyed—Boys Have Novel Flaming—In Monterey.

The telephone communications in the city were badly crippled by the fact that nearly all the communication by phone between both sides of the river was cut off. The Rock County Phone Company was not as badly crippled as the Wisconsin company for the Rock county has three cables containing three hundred and fifty wires while the Wisconsin company has the entire connection of wires under the bridge. They had over sixteen hundred wires destroyed.

The gas main remained intact for a space of about thirty feet and then the intensive heat melted the iron pipes and the main is cut off in the center of the bridge for about thirty feet.

The Postal Telegraph company had five large cables destroyed and is badly crippled. The entire foundation of the bridge is in such a rotten condition that there is immediate danger and Chief Appleby has had members of the police force stopping all heavy traffic and making the pedestrians step lively while crossing.

The piles are badly charred and shake from the force of the increased current.

When the buildings fell into the river forming a solid dam at the eastern end of the bridge the water immediately rose to a height of over eighteen inches above previous mark. During the night the back water still hovered around that mark but the river soon found different channels to go through and at eleven o'clock this morning the water registered thirteen inches above normal.

Because of the amount of bricks and parts of the fallen buildings causing backwater the river rushed past in places where there is no obstruction in a whirlpool. Great danger is anticipated if the river is not allowed to flood freely in its channel as the condition of the bridge is very grave and the water is still very high.

The backwater caused great trouble and flooded the cellar of the Jackson building and the basement of the Thomets store has a roof of water in its cellar where there is stored a large quantity of goods. When the buildings fell in great portions of buildings and quantities of stock floated down the river.

At the Court street bridge there is wedged against the piers great sides of the walls and large logs. It was a fortunate thing that the foundation of the Conrad property over the bridge did not catch fire as the foundation of the bridge is of wooden piles the same as under the Milwaukee street bridge.

The river carried large quantities of stock down and the people of Monterey were busily engaged in fishing out shoes, boots, clothing and dry goods which were carried down by the swift current. Nearly a hundred people were out in boats or on land armed with long poles fishing for the floating goods.

In spite of the fact that last night's fire offered excellent opportunity for looting in the hurry and confusion of the rescue work there has been no report of any goods lost in this manner.

The Rock County Telephone company has wires across the river below the stricken bridge and has access to all parts of the city except the business district of Milwaukee street. The Wisconsin Telephone company is entirely cut off from the west side of the river.

Both phone companies had employees working to repair the damage and the Wisconsin expects to have a part of their cables connected by tomorrow but it will be at least three days before all wires will be in normal working order.

The Postal Telegraph company ordered cables to replace those that were burned and also had men working under the bridge this afternoon. Because of the high water that almost comes up to the piers, the work is very difficult and dangerous.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

THE ELOPEMENT.

THE elopement is an abrupt system of introducing somebody into the family circle who couldn't break in otherwise without a burler kit. It is also used as a substitute for the ring service and when followed by the parental blessing saves the price of a church wedding and a four-course dinner.

Elopements are usually planned by young people who would like to exchange mother's cooking for the plain and simple diet of love in a four-room flat, where there will be no disturbing influences except real and the gas bill.

Many a girl who has left a home where all she had to do as to make her own bed and pump the piano, and scaled down a fire escape in order to marry a youth who didn't have the visible assets of a shave or the business prospects of an umbrella, with the result that she either had to give music lessons to support a weakmouthed incubus of good-bye home and be dogged around by her memory. This kind of an elopement always gets into the papers, but the sequel is left for the curled up of the neighbors.

When a girl who has always had her own way, with 8 per cent compound interest, gets her heart set on a young man who can make love with the ardor of a fudge factory, the chances are that she will marry him if she has to elope in a buckboard and a short-sleeved, long-sleeved. When such a case as this arises, the best thing for the parents to do is to swallow hard and advertise a quiet home wedding. If a girl is bound to marry a mental giant whose earthly possessions consist of a battery of purple neckties and a perennial grin, it is better to have it over with before she breaks out of the third-story window and into the headlines of the evening paper.

Every once in a while somebody will elope and live happily ever after, but the batting average of this kind of elopement is about 150. When young folks have to run away from home to find happiness, the home needs fixing in several important particulars.

MEXICANS REMEMBER DEFEAT OF FRENCH

Celebrate Anniversary of Victory of Porfirio Diaz in Streets of Puebla, April 2, 1867.

(Special to THE GAZETTE.)

City of Mexico, April 2.—A brilliant passage of arms in which Gen. Porfirio Diaz defeated a superior French force in the streets of Puebla on April 2, 1867, was recalled today to all residents of the republic by the general commemoration of the anniversary. Business was generally suspended and the day was further observed with military reviews and numerous patriotic meetings.

During the brief period that Mexico was ruled by Emperor Maximilian, with the support of the French soldiers, certain sections of the country stoutly refused to acknowledge the monarchy. Porfirio Diaz led the southern wing of those who opposed the intervention of the foreigners. For two months he had laid siege to the city of Puebla, which was the most important place in southern Mexico. The fighting had been furious during a portion of this time but the Mexicans had been unable to dislodge the French from their fortifications. Learning that Maximilian was sending reinforcements from the capital, Diaz was spurred to a greater effort and on April 2 he attacked the town just before daybreak. He led the charge in person and dashed into the heart of the city with a small band of followers before the French recovered from their surprise at the audacity of the attack. A bloody fight followed in the principal square and resulted in a complete victory for the Mexicans.

CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING AT MILTON

Dr. and Mrs. John W. Jones Observe Anniversary Today at Home of Daughter in Milton.

On April 2nd, 1863, just fifty years ago, Dr. and Mrs. Jones were married in Allen's Grove, Walworth Co., Wisconsin, by the Rev. E. P. Salmon, Congregational minister of that town. Dr. and Mrs. Jones who are now residing with their married daughter, Mrs. Harvey E. Holmes at Milton, Wisconsin, celebrated this anniversary yesterday in a most fitting manner.

The doctor, who has been suffering from a nervous breakdown for the past year, John Wilkinson Jones was born on April 23rd, 1839, in Duane County, Schenectady Co., New York, and was educated in Allen's Grove Academy and Beloit College, Wis., afterwards graduating as a physician and surgeon at Cincinnati Eclectic Medical School in 1865. Five years before this he married Mary Brockway, an English girl from Milton, New York, who was a few months his junior. Shortly after the marriage, Dr. Jones made a historic journey on a prairie schooner to California, doing the whole journey overland and returning by steamer across the Isthmus of Panama in 1865. He has many wonderful stories to tell about this eventful and arduous journey, and has ever been keenly interested in the Panama Canal which was being mooted even as far back as that time. Dr. Jones came to Wisconsin in 1843 and has lived in Rock County with only this break since. Mrs. Jones has lived in the county since 1865.

The doctor has led a busy life, practicing medicine in Clinton Junction for over 45 years, driving long journeys through both Illinois and Wisconsin in his professional work, holding license in both states. Long before the introduction of the telephone, messages were communicated to him from farmhouse to farmhouse and his life has been one long arduous service for humanity. He has held the position of Examiner for the Northwestern railroad companies, and also has acted as Examiner for most of the leading insurance companies. For 17 years he was treasurer of the school board of Clinton and for many years was state supervisor of the County Board. Prominent in Odd Fellows circles and Masonic work, his life was broad and his sympathies wide, and he was ever interested in the upbuilding of the community. Mrs. Jones has been and still is an inspiration to her husband. Although he has been laid aside by illness, she is ever active and public spirited. Three children were born of the union. The only son, John Paul, died in childhood, and two daughters help to minister to the old age of their parents. One daughter, Mrs. Marcia Maude Holmes of Milton, with whom the parents now reside, is an accomplished musician, and graduated from Milton College in the class of '92; the other, Mary Pauline, also studied at Milton College and is now occupied with the duties of her parents' home. A congratulatory message from friends in Clinton and Milton as well as from a considerable distance, have been showered upon the venerable couple, and all unite in hoping that they may be long spared to each other and to the communities they have served so faithfully.

EXPLOSIVES IN TRUNK SET OFF, INJURING ONE

(By Associated Press.)

Chicago, April 2.—George Kelley, a baggage man employed by the Illinois Central Railroad, was severely burned today by the explosion of a trunk said to have been filled with explosives.

Samuel Salvatore, 30 years old, who is alleged to have called to claim the trunk, is reported to have been arrested. Although the police deny knowledge of the affairs they are said to have the man locked up.

SEEK EXTRADITION ON SWINDLE CHARGE

Hans Bauder Held in Chicago at Instance of Swiss Government Arguments Heard Today.

(Special to THE GAZETTE.)

Chicago, Ill., April 2.—The United States commissioner today heard arguments in the proceedings brought for the extradition of Hans Bauder, who is being held at the instance of the Swiss government on a charge of having defrauded people of Switzerland out of $600,000 in fraudulent mining stock schemes. Though still a young man, Bauder has had a highly spectacular career since he first came to Chicago from Switzerland seven or eight years ago. As president of the International Realty Association, he has maintained expensive offices in one of the downtown skyscrapers and has been well known about town.

According to the story told by Arnold Hollinger, Swiss consul in Chicago, Bauder returned to Switzerland, his native land, about two years ago and duped people in all parts of the republic. Through his relatives and acquaintances in his native town he is said to have gained the confidence of hundreds of persons, to whom, it is alleged, he sold 3,000,000 francs worth of stock in a mining company which soon afterward went into the hands of a receiver. While selling the mining stock he also is said to have opened two banks, one in Basel and the other in Zurich. The Swiss government charges him with fraud, embezzlement and misappropriation of funds entrusted to him.

SILK WORKERS STILL STRIKE FOR DEMANDS

Silk Workers Striking for Better Conditions, Refuse to Work Unless Their Leader is Freed From Jail.

(By Associated Press.)

Paterson, N. J., April 2.—To the triple demands of the silk mill workers here, more money, shorter hours and less labor there was added today a fourth. The release from jail of William D. Haywood, the Industrial Workers of the World leader, sentenced yesterday to serve six months for disorderly conduct. There will be no resumption of work the leaders declare, until Haywood is freed. A second charge against him, that of causing unlawful assemblage, accuses him of a felony punishment by seven years imprisonment and fine. This charge will probably be placed before the grand jury within a few days.

FILM CENSOR LAW CAUSES A BIG PROTEST IN KANSAS

(By Associated Press.)

Topeka, Kan., April 2.—Six hundred owners of moving picture shows in Kansas have been asked to contribute $10 apiece toward contesting the enforcement of the state film censorship law requiring all films to be passed upon by the superintendent of public instruction.

A test of the constitutionality of the law will be made through a suit filed today by Attorney General John S. Dawson, against Lew Nathanson, owner of two local film shows and representatives of several eastern film exchanges. Nathanson refused to submit films to the superintendent of instruction.

ERASMUS MOMENT

It's a Cinch. He tips his hat politely and he helps her on the stair. And finds a seat for her, it matters not how scarce they are. He sits right straight through every show and never tries to slide. Out of his seat between the acts to buy a clove outside. He asks her if she would object if he enjoyed a smoke. When she approaches with a "touch" he never says he's broke. He doesn't get out evenings, for he doesn't care to roam. He wears his smoking jacket all the time that he's at home. He treats her as politely as he'd treat a neighbor's wife. He couldn't let a swear word out, not even to save his life. He hangs his clothes up carefully and simply dotes on style. He has no slouchy manners and he always wears a smile. He doesn't growl about hard times or quarrel with his food. He's simply shocked at everything that savors to the rude. He gets home from his office on the minute every day. And there is no attraction that can make him stay away. His household etiquette is great and life is one sweet song. Yes, gentle reader, it's a cinch they've not been married long.

These Annoyances. A Harvard professor—and therefore some professor, indeed—says there are really no annoyances in life except those which spring from the imagination. It's not exactly proper to apply the short and ugly north pole word to a Harvard professor, so we will merely say we believe the Harvard professor doesn't get out and around much, and perhaps this one never heard of the following little annoyances with which the imagination has nothing whatever to do.

Getting a package of flagreed shirt waists and female lingerie home from the laundry by mistake when you are in a hurry to catch a train and haven't a clean shirt to your back.

Having some extremely healthy and well fed person give you advice on what to eat when you can't keep anything on your stomach but your union suit.

Getting up in the middle of the night to answer the telephone only to find that the man on the other end of the line is trying to get the brew ery.

Having some one ask you where the Second Presbyterian church is when you don't even know where the first one is.

Getting on the street car with a lonesome nickel and having two girl friends get on at the next corner.

DROVE WAGON, WINS HEIRESS FOR BRIDE; REAL STORY BOOK ROMANCE IN OHIO TOWN

A real story book romance came to a happy climax a few days ago when Miss Ruth Jones Kutz, daughter of John B. Kutz, millionaire oil operator of Lima, O., married Harlowe Hyter, a 35-a-week driver for a Lima feed mill. Their wedding was the outcome of a wooing which was begun when Hyter arrived in Lima some months ago. Not only did he win the heart and hand of the oil magnate's daughter, but his wooing was so successful that her parents finally gave their consent to the marriage and were present at the wedding ceremony.

Erasmus had a copy on the sympathy of the whole place. And no one else got any for Erasmus always set the pace. He kept this up until it made the other folks all fightin' mad. To think they couldn't have a thing excepting what Erasmus had.

But one by one they passed away all but Erasmus and he stuck. They had no more effect on him than water has upon a duck. One hundred and five years he stayed and braved his life of toll and pain. But he was laid away one day when he had been killed by a train.

HEAD RELIEF WORK IN FLOOD DISTRICT

Miss Ethel Lloyd is the popular debautee daughter of Representative and Mrs. James Lloyd of Missouri. Mr. Lloyd is prominently mentioned as a possible member of Wilson's cabinet and if he is one of the men selected Miss Ethel will immediately become one of the best known young girls in Washington.

Secretary of War Garrison (top) and Major General Wood.

Armed with authority from President Wilson instantly to set in motion every governmental agency to relieve suffering, Secretary of War Garrison and Major General Wood of the U. S. army are in charge of the relief work in the flood-stricken districts of Ohio. Secretary Garrison has power to order federal troops into Ohio as may be necessary. This step probably will not have to be taken.

That Lost Balance. A young lady while out boat riding one day in a park, attempted to change seats, and fell overboard. When she was brought up gasping and struggling, the usual crowd gathered around and asked how it happened. "Oh, I just lost my balance," she began, when a little Jewish boy, who had been listening open-mouthed, said: "Youse loose your balance, lad, I vill find it for youse."

DEATH AND JUSTICE IN RACE FOR BANKER

Charles F. Baker.

Critically and perhaps mortally ill, Charles F. Baker, until recently assistant cashier of the Granger National Bank of San Francisco, has confessed to the embezzlement of $200,000 of that institution's funds.

"I fell because of the temptation I was constantly subjected to," he declares. "The bank paid me $10,000 a year for my services. Every day, stock, bonds, and financials called at the bank and told me how much they had won the day before with scarcely any effort. Finally I could withstand the temptation no longer. The rest of my story has been told."

Daily Thought. Of all human things, nothing is more honorable or more excellent than to deserve well of one's country.—Cicero.

FILE MORE ELECTIONS
UNDER COMPENSATION ACT
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., April 2.—In the month of March 261 employers of labor filed their elections to abide by the terms of the Workmen's Compensation Act, according to the monthly statement given out today by the Industrial Commission. These employers represent a total of 12,557 working people, operating in 291 places. Last month was the largest in the history of the Wisconsin Compensation Act. The total number of employers now under the Act is 975 and the total number of employees, subject to its terms, is 100,000, with 1740 places of employment.

The sudden and notable increase in the number of employers who are electing to pay scheduled compensation for work accidents, is attributed to the altered course of the old-line insurance companies, which have raised rates materially. A year ago these same companies put rates up to a prohibitive height and employers hesitated to assume the increased obligation. Now the companies, realizing that they over-estimated the cost of the insurance, have reversed their position and not only have put rates down to an equitable level but have instructed agents to urge employers to come under the act.

FIRE INSURANCE AGENTS
ENCOURAGE INCENDIARISM
SAYS A KANSAS OFFICIAL
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Topeka, Kansas, April 2.—I. S. Lewis, state insurance commissioner, in a formal statement today to the fire insurance companies doing business in Kansas warned them that they had encouraged incendiary by a policy of setting all the business possible without regard to the value of the property insured. He said, "The crime of incendiaryism not only is made possible, but is the direct result of over insurance. If fire insurance companies would prevent over insurance fire losses in this country would be reduced one-half."

Druggist Recommends

Vinol for Run-Down People.

If any one person should know the value of medicines it is the druggist who dispenses them and from our experience we want to say if people in this vicinity only knew the value of Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic (without oil) at this season of the year, we would not be able to supply the demand.

This is because Vinol is a combination of the two most valued medicines, namely, the medicinal curative elements of cod's livers without the oil, and iron for the blood.

Vinol tones up the digestive organs, purifies and enriches the blood, promotes healthful sleep and a normal appetite.

Old people, delicate children, run-down, overworked, and tired women, should try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you.

With a Camera

When you hunt with a gun you incur big dangers, not only for yourself, but for other people.

A dead bird is not a bird at all. It is only the mutilated remains of what was once a living thing.

To take a picture of a bird and preserve the picture is a great achievement for a child or grown up, and when we can change the shooting habit into a Camera Habit, we have made an immense stride to the front.

DRUGGISTS' NATIONAL HOME SOON COMPLETE AND READY TO OPEN

Will be Ready for Occupancy by April 5—Entire Building Has Been Renovated and Decorated.

The Druggists' National Home, the establishment of which is of especial interest to Janesville people because a former Janesville man, Mr. Heimstreet of Palmyra was active in bringing it to pass, will be ready for the drug fraternity by April 5, according to the Palmyra Enterprise. The entire building, formerly the McFadden sanitarium has been renovated and decorated.

The reception room is done in russet with cream ceilings, the large dining room in peacock blue with ivory ceilings and the halls in citrine green with ivory ceilings. The offices and some of the rooms are already finished with a variety of tints and even the kitchen is attractive in a light green. The rooms back of the reception room, have been arranged for the hotel office, smoking room and library. J. A. Denning, a leading contractor of Janesville, arrived Tuesday with a force of men, to repair porches, etc.

The officers engaged a number of help. J. F. Caniff of Janesville will have charge of the house and grounds. He has been at the Home since the transfer of the property. Mrs. B. Grout was engaged as stewardess and her son Clifford will serve as clerk and have charge of the dining room. Isaac Blason will have charge of the baggage.

The two acres back of the Home, so admirably adapted for wild plants, having a fine grove, etc., was set aside for botanical plants and will be called The Druggists' Botanical Park, and will be devoted to the culture of medical plants. The large diamond shaped lot at the side of the Home, having about one acre with a spring pond, will be enclosed with a wire fence and filled with fancy ducks. The large park containing some four acres and six mineral springs was named The Druggists' Mineral Spring Park. The summer house over the springs will be painted and put in shape, and new stone work put around all the six mineral springs.

It was decided to open the entire lake front. A road will be opened about thirty feet back of the high water mark, extending along the lake front. This will be called Lake Shore Drive, and cottages will be erected on the street. About five acres nearest Main street will be opened as a park, and a boat platform be built where the old pavilion stood. At the Point, about an acre will be reserved for a small park, and bathing houses will be erected. This entire ground will be known as Lake Shore Park.

The National Association of Drug Clerks has made arrangements for their annual meeting in Chicago the latter part of June. This Association is composed of delegates from all the states, and has an attendance of about one hundred and fifty. They notified the trustees that if they could be entertained at the Home, they would change their date to June 11 and 12 and come to Palmyra, and they were notified by the trustees to come. Rooms are already being reserved for the meeting.

Treating a Cold.

We like to think that we are much wiser, much more sensible and much further advanced than our ancestors, and so we are perhaps in many ways.

Yet almost a hundred and forty years ago John Adams, who was working for his country like many other men and who had no idea that he would one day be president, and that his sayings would be worth quoting, prescribed the most modern sort of treatment for a cold—plenty of fresh air.

Miss Evelyn Mueller attended the dance at Beloit Tuesday night.
Mr. and Mrs. Gus Nohr spent Sunday in Beloit.
Mrs. Hoffman will be present at the church next Sunday, so every one is invited to come and hear her.
Alex. Jack is spending a few days with T. J. Oakley.

MILTON JUNCTION

Milton Junction, April 2.—Mrs. Slector of Lima has been visiting Mrs. John Semon.
Henry Yale was an over Sunday guest at the home of his brother at Waterloo.
Irving Klitzke of Edgerton spent yesterday here.
Ed. Schneider and family are moving to Whitewater.
J. M. Cahagan and family are moving into the house recently vacated by Thomas Driver and family.
A large audience attended the concert at the M. E. church last night.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher

Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams

BY WALT MASON

We foolish folk are discontented with things where'er we chance to dwell. "The air," we say, "is sweeter scented in some far distant dale or dell." And so we pull up stakes and travel to seek the fair and promised land, and find our Canaan is but gravel, a wilderness of rocks and sand.

"Across the hills the fields are greener," we murmur, "and the view more fair; the water of the brooks is cleaner, and fish grow larger over there." And so we leave our pleasant valley, from our loving friends we part, and o'er the stony hills we sally, to reach a land that breaks the heart. "There's gold in plenty over yonder," we say, "and we shall seek the mines." Then from our cheerful homes we wander, far from our figtrees and our vines; a little while our dreams we cherish, and think that we can never fail, but, tired at last, we drop and perish, and leave our bones upon the trail. How happy is the man whose nature permits him to enjoy his home, who, till compelled to legislature, declines in paths afar to roam! There is no region better, fairer, than that home region that you know; there are no zephyrs sweeter, rarer, than those which through your gables blow.

REFITTED STEAMSHIP OLYMPIC SETS SAIL FOR NEW YORK

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Southampton, April 2.—The mammoth steamship Olympic, refitted and reconstructed at a cost of more than $1,000,000 with a view to making her the safest vessel afloat, sailed today for New York. The great steamship, which still retains the honor of being the largest vessel in the world, was greeted with a roar of salutes from the whistles of all the craft in the harbor as she left her dock and moved majestically out into the channel.

Experts pronounce the reconstruction work on the Olympic to be one of the wonders of modern engineering. The double bottom of the vessel has been extended well above the water line, so that now the big ship has what may be called two complete hulls, one within the other. As additional safeguards she has been fitted with a number of extra bulkheads, some of which extend to the decks forty feet above the water line.

Inscriptions on Monuments

The cutting of the inscription requires the work of experts, if it is to be correct. It is no easy task to carve initials out of solid granite.

The work turned out by this shop is beautiful in its correct, even lines and angles; there is none better turned out anywhere.

And the quality of our granites is second to none. Blue gray granites that delight the eye. Massive red granites and pieces of the famous Barre granites are shown on our floor now.

SAINT PAUL PASSES NEW REGULATIONS

New Rules Applying to Danger Signals
Goes into Effect Yesterday—
Rules Modified.

New rules passed by the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad officials concerning safety appliances went into effect today and many of the rules have been changed regarding the use of fuses, torpedoes and flags. Rule 79 reads as follows: "A torpedo placed on the rail is a signal to be used in addition to the regular danger signal. The explosion of one or more torpedoes is to stop immediately. Torpedoes are not to be placed near station or crossroads, where persons are liable to be injured by them.

"A fuse is an extra signal to be lighted and placed upon the track and to be used freely in the case of accident or when a train stops or reduces its speed so as to endanger its rear from trains that may be following or when there is a condition endangering a train on an adjacent track. When fuses are used as a danger signal they must not be used on any bridge or any place where there is a danger of fire.

"In whistling four long blasts is the signal for the fireman to return from the engine. Five long blasts means the fireman to return from the east."

"When a train stops, between stations, a flag man must go immediately back with the proper signals to stop any train that may be following up the rear. The flag man must go back, and shall take with him not less than three torpedoes, three fuses and a red flag (day) and if at night a white one. He shall place one torpedo on the rail on the engineer's side when three-fourths of a mile (23 telegraph poles) from the rear of the train and a further distance of a quarter of a mile (eight telegraph poles) he shall place two torpedoes on the engineer's side. He will then select a clear spot where he will gain a good view of the track ahead and remain until train following is stopped or he is recalled. On returning he will leave at the most distant point from the train the torpedoes, and take up the rest. If at night or the weather is stormy or foggy, he will light and place fuses on the track. When it becomes necessary the fore-end of the train will be protected in the same manner."

It's Dangerous, Being a Songster.
"I notice," said Mrs. Pozzozzi, "that a choir soloist in Greenwich, Conn., broke an artery while singing a high note. I never heard of an accident such as that before, but I have often feared Mr. Pozzozzi might rupture himself singing the low notes in 'Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep.'"

Making Mistakes.
The wisest man is likely to make a mistake, but he isn't the wisest man if he makes another like it.

TORTURING ECZEMA SINCE CHILDHOOD

Itching Too Terrible to Describe. Perfectly Cured by Resinol.

Washington, D.C., Feb. 12, 1913.—"Since early childhood I have suffered untold misery with that terrible torture, eczema, on the backs of my hands and fingers. I have spent hundreds of dollars on treatments and consultations and bought every known remedy, but could not be cured. My hands would crack open, oftentimes showing the ligaments, and the skin would stick to the inside of my gloves. Gave Up All Hope of Cure.

"The itching was too terrible to describe and sleep was possible only when in an exhausted condition. This winter I had given up all hope of ever finding a cure, when I heard of Resinol and purchased some. The results were perfectly marvelous. I used three jars of Resinol Ointment, with Resinol Soap, and my hands are perfectly cured. I cannot find words strong enough to praise Resinol and what it has done for me. I wish everyone needing relief from that stubborn and torturing affliction would give Resinol a trial. I shall be pleased to answer any inquiries. (Signed) Mrs. Harry O. Jarboe, 621 E. St. N. W. You can try Resinol free for skin eruptions, pimples, dandruff, stubborn sores, boils, or piles. Sold by every druggist, but for trial, write to Dept. 23-T, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

Climate Failed; Medicine Effective

It has been absolutely shown that rest, fresh air and good food do help many persons suffering from Tuberculosis. But it must be admitted that the cure is seldom more than "arrested." Something more is needed.

Eckman's Alternative is a medicine made for the treatment of Tuberculosis. It has conquered this disease again and again. Often these benefits have been effected where the surroundings were ideal, yet recoveries resulted. Now we argue that Eckman's Alternative should be used in every case of Tuberculosis, in addition to good, nourishing food and fresh air, which we all need. A remarkable case follows:

"Gentlemen: Through Eckman's Alternative I have been saved from a premature grave. On December 14, 1901, I was taken with Typhoid Fever. My lungs became very much affected; my sputum was examined and Tuberculosis Bacilli were found. On February 21, 1903, I was advised to go to Fort Worth, Texas. While there an abscess in my right lung broke and I grew worse and worse, and became very much emaciated. My physician informed me that I must go to Colorado as quickly as possible. I left Texas, and arrived in Colorado in March, June 3 very feeble. After being there two weeks, my physician informed me that my case was hopeless. When weeks later I returned home, weighing 103 pounds, the doctor having given me no assurance of recovery, there alive."

"On July 14, 1905, I began taking Eckman's wonderful remedy for Consumption. Today weigh 185 pounds. I am stout and well and can do kind of work about my grain elevator. I have not an ache nor pain in my lungs, not with sleep well and never feel better."

Eckman's Alternative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Throat and Lung Troubles, and in rebuilding the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates or habit-forming drugs. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for more evidence. NAME C. L. FIFIELD BY A CLOSE MARGIN IN JUDGESHIP RACE

WINS OVER JOHN CUNNINGHAM
BY LESS THAN 300 VOTES
ACCORDING TO LATEST RETURNS.

BELOIT TURNS TRICK

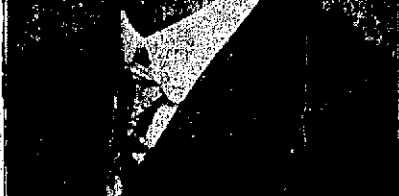

Line City Gives a Total Plurality of 711 For Fifield Who Also Swings Janesville by 54 Votes.

BULLETIN.
With returns from all precincts except Avon the vote on county judgeship stands: Fifield, 3,225; Cunningham, 2,949. Fifield's majority, 276.

Charles L. Fifield at present the judge of the Janesville municipal court, was elected on Tuesday to succeed Judge John W. Sale as judge of the Rock county probate court. His plurality over J. Cunningham will be less than 250 votes according to the latest returns received at the Gazette office. Fifield carried both Beloit and Janesville, the former by 711 votes and the latter by 54. Beloit's support turned the trick for Fifield who ran far behind Cunningham in most of the country districts.

Towns For Cunningham.
Early returns from the townships indicated that Cunningham was receiving heavy support throughout the country precincts. Milton village gave him a plurality of 66, the town of Spring Valley was his by 70, Magnolia by 44, Harmony by 42, Bradford by 47, and Porter by 35. Evansville, however went to Fifield by a ratio of two to one, but Edgerton went to Cunningham by a plurality of 57.

The vote ran very close in the city of Janesville and was virtually an even break although Fifield carried the first, fourth and fifth wards. Cunningham made his poorest showing in Janesville first ward where he received but 55 votes to Fifield's 166. Here Burpee was second man with 102.

Every one of the seven precincts in Beloit gave Fifield a neat plurality. In the third ward he was two to one ahead of Cunningham. Burpee ran a poor third and Ryan a worse fourth throughout the county. The contest was plainly between Fifield and Cunningham.

Poll a Heavy Vote.
The vote throughout the county was unusually large for a spring election and indicated that there was a large amount of interest in the judgeship contest. Many of the towns polled as large votes as at the general election last fall. Janesville totaled nearly 1,800 votes in the judgeship contest and Beloit about 2,300.

Interest in the outcome of the judgeship fight was practically at zero in Janesville last night with the entire city horror stricken by the terrible fire which swept the Milwaukee street bridge. Not until after ten o'clock when the flames were under control did the citizens show any disposition to learn the outcome of the election. For an hour or so there were numerous visitors at the Gazette office and a large number of telephone calls were received.

In spite of the fact of the fire which badly crippled the lines of the telephone companies, especially the Rock county company, the Gazette was fortunate in securing practically complete returns last night and at eleven o'clock there was no doubt as to the relative standing of the candidates. The following table gives the result of the judgeship race:

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

A "PERFECT RIGHT"

A SEMI-INVALID who lived in a large apartment house, had his sleep broken almost every night by loud noises in the apartment overhead. Again and again he would be awakened at one or two o'clock by someone tramping heavily about in the room over him, and would not be able to get to sleep again that night. His wife, fearing serious injury to his health, wrote a courteous note to their overhead neighbors, explaining the state of affairs, and asking them if they would mind being a bit quieter at that time of night in the room directly over his.

Whereupon they promptly sent back word that they had a high rent for their apartment, and felt that they had a perfect right to make all the noise they chose.

Of course that incident sets your teeth on edge just as it did mine, and yet isn't the spirit involved in that declaration of right a rather common one?

Don't we all sometimes do things that we have a "perfect right" to do in one way, and no right in another?

For instance, a young girl who lived in a boarding house and had running water in her room, used to do some of her washing in the bowl. "It's quite easy," she said, "because before I wash I turn on the water and let it run through the things for half an hour or so." "Doesn't that use up a lot of water?" she was asked. "Oh I suppose so," she answered, "but you know I don't have to pay for it, and there's nothing in the terms to prevent my using all the water I want." Now I know this girl would have been shocked at the rude answer of the noisy tenant, and yet wasn't she showing the same spirit?

Of course one has a "perfect right" to go into a shop or a restaurant just about five minutes before closing time, when the tired shop girls are longing for an opportunity to put away their stock, and the waitresses are hoping that trade will slacken up. But isn't it a pretty mean thing to make a habit of doing. That is, unless some necessity compels one to shop or eat at that particular hour.

Of course a lady of leisure who has been shopping or amusing herself in town during the afternoon, and could have gone home at any time she pleased, has a "perfect right" to go home during the rush hour and keep a seat from some poor girl who has stood behind the counter all day long. But the really kind and thoughtful women do not use that right.

There are many other things to which one has a "perfect right" without having a moral right. I leave each reader to find out those that concern her, for herself.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

GET knowledge, all you can, and the more you get the more you breathe upon its nearer heights their inspiring air and enjoy the widening prospect, the more you will know and feel how small is the elevation you have reached in comparison with the immeasurable altitudes that yet remain unsealed. —Gladstone.

CHAFING DISH SUGGESTIONS.

The many valuable uses to which the chafing dish may be put has been oft told in song and story, but there is none so valuable as that which gladdens the heart of our convalescent. His appetite may be stimulated by some delicate morsel which he will enjoy all the more intensely because he has watched the process of cooking. In the home where there is an invalid, the chafing dish is almost indispensable.

With the chafing dish, which may be as simple or as fine as the purse allows, one always likes a few pretty pitchers, small bowls, dainty jars and dishes to hold the materials to cook, as well as the condiments and seasonings. Measuring spoons and cups are indispensable, as accuracy is as essential in chafing dish cookery as in any other.

Anchovy Toast.—Toast four slices of bread from which the crusts have been removed, spread with anchovy paste. Scald a cup of milk, add two egg yolks and stir until the mixture thickens. Beat the whites of two eggs until stiff, add the thickened milk, beat thoroughly and pour over the toast.

Toast dipped in egg and milk and fried in a bit of butter is a favorite way of serving bread.

Frizzled Beef.—Take a few slices of dried beef, cover with boiling water and let stand ten minutes, and drain. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter in the blazer, add two tablespoonfuls of flour, and pour on gradually one cup of milk. Season with salt and pepper; repeat the beef in the sauce, and pour over strips of toasted bread. A yolk of egg may be added, if wanted richer.

Hash balls may be browned and served hot from the chafing dish. One of the charms of chafing dish cookery is that it is served hot from the dish.

Inculcating Right Views.

Some people hold that children should hear bad things to cultivate their sympathy. Might it not be just as effective to teach them to sympathize with gladness? Is it not much easier to weep with those that weep than it is to really rejoice with those who do rejoice? It is a very hardened heart that is not softened at the sight of pain and distress, while it requires something higher and nobler to be glad when another has some pleasure or happiness greater than we possess.

WIFE OF NEW SECRETARY OF STATE TO BE A LEADER OF THE CABINET CIRCLE

Mrs. William Jennings Bryan, wife of the new secretary of state, doubtless will be one of the leaders of the cabinet circle at Washington during the next four years. She is a woman of unusual culture and is well fitted to hold up her end in the social life of the national capital.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

For Sore Throat. For sore throat or tonsillitis, gargle the throat with alum water. Find this excellent.

The Table. Chicken With Asparagus.—Cut young chicken into several parts; then season with salt and pepper. Brown chicken in two tablespoonfuls of hot butter, add one cup stock and allow to boil, then add tips of one bunch of asparagus; let cook slowly two hours, adding more stock as it boils down. Before serving add one tablespoonful flour mixed smooth with one cup milk and let come to a boil. Pineapple, sliced, (two recipes). Make a very rich custard, grate a pineapple, cream half its weight of butter with its weight in sugar and add yolks of four eggs beaten light, then add a cup of cream; bake with an under crust; put the beaten whites of the eggs on top. One grated pineapple, its weight in sugar, half its weight in butter, five eggs (the whites beaten to a stiff froth), one cup cream, Cream butter and beat it with sugar and yolks until very light; add cream, pineapple and whites of the eggs. Bake with under crust. To be eaten cold.

O'Brien Potatoes.—Take about two potatoes to each person. Boil with jackets. When cool, pare and dice into casserole or bake dish. Make a white sauce and add either New York or Vermont cream cheese. Put into white sauce while cooking; use plenty of cheese. When done pour over potatoes and add two sweet peppers cut up fine, or more if desired.

English Yorkshire Pudding.—Four eggs, two cups flour and about one cup of milk and pinch of salt. Beat eggs until very light, add milk and flour, and beat all together thoroughly; set aside for an hour or so, before it is time to put in your roasting pan. I find that by mixing it in this way I have a much nicer and lighter pudding than by just getting it ready in time to take it. Try it and be convinced.

The Housewife.

I find that I can clean my wallpaper very nicely with common bread dough.

To clean irons, put in sink, wet with hot water, sprinkle with scouring powder, let stand five minutes, rub with damp cloth until thoroughly clean on bottom and sides. Wash again, put on to heat. Use wax on cloth, not paper.

When ironing put tablespoonful of any powdered cleanser on a piece of paper at your right hand. Rub irons on this; they will be smooth as glass.

FREE LOVE DOCTRINE AGITATES CHICAGO

Dr. Anna Blount.

The so-called "free love doctrine," advanced by a meeting of Chicago club women, headed by Dr. Anna Blount, has been the source of a lot of controversy in Chicago of late. The essence of the doctrine is that "the innumerable rights are as deserving of relief by divorce as the misdeeds of unrighteous and persons should not be forced to commit sin or perjury in order to obtain a divorce."

The April First Smile

The April first smile is a jolly sort of smile, isn't it? Even when the joke is on ourselves, we laugh in a sneaking, furtive sort of way, because the good humor of the day has got into our blood, and we just can't help finding a bit of delight in the foolishness and nonsense of it all.

Encyclopediae probably tell the historical origin of April Fool Day. But the real origin of it is right in the human heart. If we didn't all of us enjoy a good joke, if we didn't find pleasure in a hearty laugh, if we didn't have a sense of humor, the first of April as a special day on the calendar would be a dead one. But its observance, such as it is, has touched a responsive chord in the heart and so it lives.

And isn't it rather pleasant to dwell upon the fact that at heart we have such a love of fun, that we thus keep alive a day that practically honors the joke? For aren't humor and laughter good things to keep alive in life? Doesn't life become more pleasant when we have a sense of things?

So after all there may be a deeper significance to April Fool Day than we think. For it teaches some of us to smile more easily, it helps us to develop a sense of humor so that we can take adverse situations with a laugh instead of with a frown, surely it is a day worthy of real regard.

For laughter is a tonic, and good nature is like sunshine, and anything that spreads the gospel of good cheer is to be commended.

And so today, it is a cheery sight to walk abroad and see nearly every one on the broad grin. It is inspiring to hear the snigger of the small boy concealed behind a barrel as he watches the pedestrian furtively endeavoring to remove a dime from the pavement. It is as good as a show to exchange significant smiles with our fellows as we step along behind a magnificent old gentleman with a port wine complexion and impressive side whiskers, as he sails majestically down the street bearing on his back the placard: "Just escaped." Though for all we know we may be affording us some amusement to those in our wake.

But it is a day of jollity. And at night, we are all the better for the spirit of fun that has permeated the atmosphere.

Barbara Boyd.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I'm a young man of 18 and would like to keep company with a girl of 16. There is one I love, have kept company with her a few months, but I am a bartender now and she is very much against it. What can I do about it?

JOLLY FELLOW. You are too young to keep company with a girl, and a girl of 16 is too young to know whether she loves a man or not. Wait until you are old enough to know what you really want, young man. And get into a better occupation, if possible.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man of 26 and engaged to a girl of my age. Could she break the engagement? BLUE EYES. Yes.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a girl of 22. I am a good church worker and can do housework nicely and can bake and cook and have a lot of girl friends. But somehow it seems the young men never take to me. I do not dance or go to theaters, as I do not care for it. I always dress nicely, but not well, as I cannot afford it. Is it because I am not as pretty as some girls? I always act nicely when I am in company or at parties, but what is the trouble that I never get any beau, as most girls do? It makes me blue sometimes to think I never have any. (2) I have a white straw hat that got yellow from the sun. Is there any way I can clean it? (3) Is my writing very bad? DOTTY.

(1) Boys like to be entertained and to be seen escorting well-dressed attractive girls. Make yourself interesting to the young men. Talk about the things they like. If you are a good cook, invite them to Sunday evening tea occasionally and fill

"Very little, colonel, save that he seems an excellent young officer—he has a record of conspicuous gallantry, I believe, or something of the sort. I should fancy Young's secret service corps would be the proper place for him—you know General Sheridan is organizing such a body, and I understand he wants it to be composed of soldiers exclusively, if he can get them. The valley, it would appear, is infested with—aw—Confederate spies and irregulars, don't you know—of both sexes, too, as we are informed."

"So I hear. Now, regarding this Lieutenant Bedloe, I sent for him as I came through the camp. You may be surprised to learn that he is the son of General Haverill."

"I am nonplused! Under an assumed name, then?"

"Evidently. He was supposed to have been killed in the southwest, either at Shiloh or when Farragut came up the Mississippi from the gulf. Instead, he was a prisoner, and he escaped from Libby."

"Here he comes now," said Captain Heartsease, looking down the driveway.

"What—that fellow with the beard? Why, his face was as smooth as a boy's when I last met him in Charleston."

"The young stranger—for he was that by his manner and to all appearances—approached and saluted, saying:

"You wished me to report to you, colonel?"

"You have been assigned to the regiment during my absence," asked Kerchival, scanning him closely.

"Yes, sir."

At this Kerchival started forward, grasped his hand and, looking straight into his eyes, said:

"Frank Haverill!"

"You—you know me, sir?"

"Yes, Frank, I know you now. You could not have arrived at a more opportune moment. When I passed through Washington I saw Mrs. Haverill, and she told me of your escape from prison in Richmond. But no one knew of your having re-entered the service or that you had been assigned to my regiment—not only that, but to General Haverill's brigade."

"My father?" gasped the lieutenant.

"Yes. Prepare yourself to meet him face to face at any moment. But he can't possibly recognize you with that beard and uniform. Now, only this morning I received a letter from Washington, all about you. Here it is!"

Colonel West took the missive from his pocket and handed it over—"so they have learned more as to your whereabouts since I was there. Count upon me, my dear fellow, to do everything I can for you."

In another moment General Haverill, accompanied by a staff officer to whom he was issuing instructions, stood at the foot of the veranda steps. He had only time to return the salute of the three officers awaiting him there when another of his staff came hurrying up on horseback and handed him a dispatch.

"Good for Major Young!" muttered the general, scanning the paper. "So the men are ready?" Then, turning to Kerchival, he said: "Colonel, I have to instruct you regarding a highly important matter which has just come up, and there is not a minute to be lost. I will ask Captain Heartsease to remain also."

Here Lieutenant Bedloe thought to withdraw unnoticed, with a mere passing salute. But the general's keen eye had looked him over at a glance and with apparent interest, for he said quickly:

"One moment, lieutenant—your name?"

"Lieutenant Bedloe, general," put in Heartsease promptly, "one of our best senior officers."

CHAPTER XIII.

Signals From Three Top Mountain.

"PARDON me," murmured General Haverill, finally turning away from the youth. "Now."

Colonel West, speaking of young officers, we have an adventurous piece of work for some one of them."

here, Frank stopped to hear the rest—"a dangerous mission, so much so that I shall not order any individual to undertake it. A volunteer to lead the venture is what we want."

"Oh, sir, general, may I have the chance?" cried Lieutenant Bedloe.

"I thought you had passed on, sir," returned the general, looking keenly at him again.

"If it is a scouting expedition, sir, the young man went on with irresistible eagerness, "I beg to say that I have made myself thoroughly acquainted with the region hereabout. In fact, I was hoping to qualify as a scout. Please don't refuse me, sir."

General Haverill could not help showing that he was pleased.

"That is the right kind of talk," he declared, turning to the other officers.

"Our young friend shall listen while I tell you what is required. We want the key to the enemy's cipher and signal code. They have a signal station on Three Top mountain, yonder, and another somewhere down the creek that is a nest of mischief to us. Every night we see their messages in fire on the mountain top, and we can't read them. What we want is a bold dash inside Early's lines and a sudden attack upon the station, with seizure of the papers and dispatches. If there is a practicable way of approach from this side of the mountain, the thing might be risked with the right sort of a leader."

"I know of a path, general, and I believe I could accomplish the undertaking," urged Frank.

"Very well. Major McCandless of my staff here will take you to Young's."

"I am, nonplused! Under an assumed name, then?"

"Evidently. He was supposed to have been killed in the southwest, either at Shiloh or when Farragut came up the Mississippi from the gulf. Instead, he was a prisoner, and he escaped from Libby."
